

Flood Causes Great Loss of Life

MANY LIVES LOST IN GREAT FLOOD

Hundreds of Families Deserted Their Homes—The Damage to Property Will be Heavy

PITTSBURGH, July 25.—Death and desolation spread broadcast over the southwest counties yesterday and last night through cloudbursts and overflowing streams. Three score or more lives are the toll, while the damage to homes and industries cannot be estimated.

Fifteen lives were snuffed out in Super Mine Number One, near Uniontown, 15 miners narrowly escaped death, while from many other sections come reports of lives lost by the mountain torrents rushing into mine shafts.

Hundreds of families, deserting homes in a mad rush for safety on the mountain sides sought shelter beneath improvised shacks and tents. At daybreak shivering women and children gazed over a scene of desolation in the upper Youghiogheny valley, as the waters roiled, upturned dwellings, shattered buildings and crumpled piles of mortar were held in a conglomerate mass by a railroad bridge or truss, or the progress of the debris had been impeded by some larger and stancher buildings.

It was long after midnight before the waters began to recede. Rain had ceased to fall some hours earlier but the heavy precipitation soon made the usually dry beds of mountain streams veritable torrents.

Floods in these regions are of annual occurrence, for which preparation is made and comparatively little damage is done. Freshets caused by heavy summer rains occur several times a season but the heavy waterfalls are carried away with little damage. The cloudburst of yesterday, however, came before the district had recovered from more than 24 hours of torrential rains on Sunday and with every stream bank full all went out of their banks.

In the Turtle Creek valley the damage is enormous. Crops were blotted from the earth. Railroad traffic through a great territory is demoralized. With four connections into Uniontown, the Pennsylvania railroad was unable to get passengers into the city early today. Several railroad bridges of that system and the Baltimore & Ohio were torn from foundations, thought impregnable and buried into the maddened waters.

Hundreds are homeless. Thousands are suffering. Towns are cut off from railroad, mail, telephone and telegraph connections and are in darkness and are without fuel. From West Virginia no reports can be secured by the weather bureau for almost every wire from that state is down.

It was in the coke region that the fury of the storm seemed to have been spent. Uniontown, Dunbar, Lemont, Mount Braddock, Connellsville—all were inundated and suffered great damage. The greatest loss of life was due to the flooding of the Super mine at Evans, nine miles from Uniontown. Fifteen miners are now accounted lost. Three are missing among the 450 employed at Lemont No. 1 mine of the H. C. Frick Coke Co., whose nine foot vein underlies that of the Super mine workings. In this latter mines reports indicate the loss of six lives. Those who have penetrated the Super mine since the flood report almost indescribable ruin within the workings.

"It looks in there as if there had been an explosion of terrific force," said one. "The water simply ripped up the tracks and twisted and bent the rails in all sorts of shapes. In some places forming an almost impassable barrier to our further entry."

The workings underlie a large tract of lowland which was transformed into a veritable lake through which the cool spring channel formed a madly rushing race. The tremendous weight of this body of water found the spots in the surface and the 30 foot earth crust covering the workings broke through in five widely scattered points. The largest of these was within one hundred feet of the slope entry of the mine. It is a hole 20 feet in diameter into which have tumbled rails and other obstructions had been hurled in the mad frenzy of relatives of mines known to be in the workings when the first alarm of danger was sounded.

Mine Foreman Gainer, after completing measurements to find out how much pipe would be required to reach from the entrance to the water in the mine for pumping out the water, estimated it would be three months before resumption of work in the mine would be possible.

When the storms, cloudbursts and floods swept over the large area yesterday scores of the towns afflicted were just recovering from a similar deluge which occurred last Sunday morning. Then came yesterday's storm and the towns were again plunged into desolation. Hundreds of families were driven from their homes, residences and buildings were demolished and streets were torn up by the mile, while others were piled high with tons of debris. Poles were uprooted and wires dropped to the streets, effectively blocking communication from many points and causing darkness at many others. Railroad and street car facilities were practically suspended until after midnight.

Dunbar, Pa., nine miles west of Uniontown, is the centre of the desolation in Pennsylvania. The flood waters swept away stores and dwellings and did serious damage to mines, furnace and coke plants, and spread terror through the hearts of thousands. The flood came about 2:15 p. m., with terrifying suddenness.

J. W. Finner of the Central hotel was at his desk when the telephone bell rang. On the other end of the line was Albert Dunn, the bookkeeper of the A. V. Purcell limestone quarries, two miles above the town.

"There's an awful flood coming. Warn the people quick. All the dams about here have burst," Dunn shouted. Finner dropped the receiver and rushed into the street, shouting and people to run for their lives to the hills. The alarm spread like wildfire, and in an instant buildings and stores were emptied and the people rushed for safety to high ground.

The warning came none too soon. Finner says it was one of the quickest rushes of water imaginable. Immediately Dunbar creek was swirling 15 feet above its normal level, undermining the trolley tracks of the West Penn Railroad Co., where they cross the creek. The Baltimore & Ohio tracks alongside were lifted and the abutment loosened. Less than a hundred feet below this, the Pennsylvania railroad bridge was torn from the abutment and, with the tracks, carried away another wreck.

Among the buildings caught in the swirling current was the city hall. Many places of business were wrecked. All the machinery of the A. V. Purcell limestone quarries were carried away and bridged back of the First National bank building on Connellsville street, where debris was piled 20 feet high above the trolley tracks. Telephone, telegraph and electric light poles were torn down, rendering the city practically helpless in case a fire should break out. Almost identical conditions were experienced in many other places.

MINES FLOODED

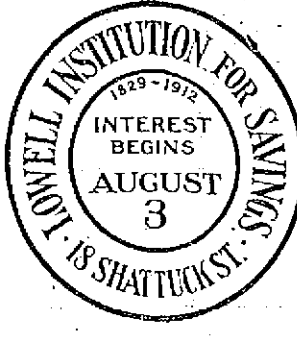

IN A VERY SHORT SPACE OF TIME

PITTSBURGH, July 25.—Scenes of devastation greeted thousands of sufferers by flood in western Pennsylvania, eastern Ohio and West Virginia when the sun rose today following the torrential rains of the preceding 24 hours.

During the night meagre reports filtered in, which, if verified, will increase the list of fatalities to 61. The places and the number reported to have been drowned at each are as follows:

Uniontown, Pa., 10; Smock, Pa., located in Redstone valley, 14 drowned; Grimsdore, Pa., 12 miners missing; Lynn, Pa., two miners reported drowned; Wheeling, W. Va., three drowned; Lemont, Pa., mine, four miners drowned; Ellenwood, Pa., H. L. King, his wife and child drowned; New Martinsville, six drowned; Monongahela, W. Va., one drowned; Fairmont, W. Va., two drowned.

Of this list of 61 fatalities it has been possible to account definitely for 23. Admittedly the full death list will not be known for many days to come. A large number of mines were flooded in a short space of time, and the operatives were compelled to flee for their lives. Whether some or all the miners reported missing escaped can only be ascertained by time. It will take months to clear some of the mines of water. From many sections known to have been inundated reports have not been received.

THE POLICE FAILED TO GET THE GANG

That Figured in Rosenthal Murder

JACK ROSE MAY TELL THE STORY

That Will Lead to More Arrests

NEW YORK, July 25.—Efforts to discover the identity of the men who plotted the death of Herman Rosenthal have been balked for the time by the failure of the police to round up the gang that murdered Rosenthal in front of the hotel Metropole. Nine days have now elapsed since the gambler was slain and with the exception of himself not one of the passengers in the gray automobile have been brought to headquarters by the police, though several of the supposed assassins have been seen in the city during the past week.

District Attorney Whitman is giving his undivided attention to unraveling the tangled threads of evidence and with him is working Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty. Whitman and Dougherty believe that "Bald Jack" Rose was the managing mind behind the murder plot and from one or two of the prisoners now held in connection with the case they hope to obtain facts that will convince Rose he had better turn state's evidence. Rose is still of the belief that the police system will protect him and halts at turning informer though the public prosecutor has let it become known that Rose will be treated with leniency if he discloses the names of the real conspirators.

The grand jury planned to continue its investigation into the gambling charges made by Rosenthal and will, probably recall Otto Ayers, the chauffeur who drove Lieut. Becker around the town on the night of the murder. It has been learned that Ayers, after his recent testimony before the grand jury, hurried to Becker and told him all that he had testified to. Police Inspectors Hayes and Lahey and Captain Daley are under subpoena to appear before the grand jury today. Becker has not so far, accepted the invitation of the district attorney to appear as a witness before the grand jury. Becker will not be subpoenaed, but he can appear if he desires by waiving immunity.

District Attorney Whitman made what he believes to be material increase of evidence as far as "Bridge" Webber's connection with the affair is concerned, when John J. Reiser, otherwise known as "John the Barber," made an affidavit previous to the barber's arraignment in court on a perjury charge.

The affidavit stated that Reiser and his wife were near the hotel Metropole on the night of the killing and that "somebody told me that Herman Rosenthal had been shot. I went over to where his body was lying. I observed 'Bridge' Webber running away from the scene of the crime and asked a man known as 'Kid' Lewis, 'what is 'Bridge' Webber running away for?' I did not catch Lewis' reply."

It was announced at noon that William Shapiro, chauffeur of the "murder car," would appear at the district attorney's this afternoon and turn state's evidence and tell all he knows. His statement is expected to do much toward fixing the responsibility for Rosenthal's murder.

Lieut. Becker, who was invited by the grand jury to appear and give testimony, made his appearance in the criminal court building this afternoon and announced that he was ready to give what testimony he could to the grand jury. He went to the district attorney's office and there waited with Lieuts. Costigan and Reilly, who also had responded to invitations to be escorted by District Attorney Whitman into the grand jury room.

PLENTY OF MONEY
CHAUFFEURS, NEWSBOYS AND OTHERS WELL SUPPLIED
NEW YORK, July 25.—Ten dollar banknotes are declared never to have been so plentiful among certain habitues of the section near Broadway and 42nd street as within the past few days, since investigators, public and private, have been trying to round up witnesses of the killing of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler. The plethora of cash seems to have induced a state of suspended memory on the part of chauffeurs, newsboys, hoppers-on of various resorts and others who might be supposed to have knowledge of the incidents of the crime or events in connection with it that preceded or followed.

Mountaineers Charged With Vote Selling

JONESVILLE, Va., July 25.—The killing of Dr. James Walden, a prominent democrat, last night by Perry Wallin, a republican leader, has fanned a smoldering political feud in a Black-water district to a threatened outbreak. All through the mountain district the clans are lining up.

The coming trial of 200 mountaineers charged with vote-selling, is causing the local authorities to make preparations for the protection of the court and jury.

Judge Skeen today got a message from the mountaineers reading: "There are 35 in our party. Before we will submit to going to jail we will die and go to hell."

CAMPAIGN FUNDS ARE EXPLAINED BY SHELDON

He Says That Frick and Morgan Were Among the Many Contributors

WASHINGTON, July 25.—George A. Sheldon, republican national treasurer in 1908, today told the senatorial committee investigating campaign funds his version of the late Edward H. Harriman's contribution to Roosevelt's campaign in 1904. Mr. Sheldon said he knew unofficially that J. P. Morgan & Co. and Henry C. Frick were contributors in 1904. The late Cornelius Bliss was treasurer then but Mr. Sheldon was associated with him in an unofficial capacity. He could not remember the amounts which the Morgan firm or Mr. Frick gave in 1904 but classes them among the large contributors to that campaign.

The books which Mr. Sheldon produced for inspection of the committee, Senator Paynter asked Mr. Sheldon to tell what he knew about the Harriman contribution.

"That has all been printed in my letter to Mr. Roosevelt," responded Mr. Sheldon.

A LOCAL RESIDENT HAD EXCITING TIME

He Was Arrested by the Turkish Soldiers

ORDERED TO LEAVE COUNTRY

He Appealed to American Consul

Apostolos Faszouloupoulos, a well known Greek resident of this city, who last year left Lowell to visit his brother, who is in Turkey and recently returned to Lowell, had an exciting experience while in Turkey according to stories told by his friends in this city. Mr. Faszouloupoulos admits that he had an exciting time while abroad and inasmuch as he is a citizen of the United States, it is understood that there has been an exchange of many official letters between the United States and Turkish governments. Inasmuch as the Lowell man has turned the matter over to a local lawyer he refused to discuss the matter at any length at this time.

Faszouloupoulos came to this country a number of years ago and secured employment in the Merrimack Clothing store in Merrimack street. He was a very valuable employee.

During the early part of last fall he decided to take a trip to his fatherland and also to visit his brother who is in Turkey. When he arrived in Turkey it is alleged that he was arrested by Turkish soldiers on the charge of being an American spy. According to the story told by his countrymen he was cast into a dismal jail where he was confined for four days. It is said that he made several appeals to the American consulate at Salonica, Turkey, but received no assistance. At the end of the fourth day he was taken out of the prison and ordered to leave the country.

After spending a short time in Greece and visiting former friends he took passage to this country and recently arrived in Lowell.

A permit was received by P. J. Buzan to make alterations to the building at 475 Market street, the place being occupied by Vassiliou Gravis. The work will consist of a new front, with plate glass windows and the estimated cost is given as $150.

Chaufeurs' Examination
Examiner Olson of the highway commission of Boston will be at city hall tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock to examine applicants for chauffeurs' licenses.

Bids Called For
Bids have been asked for the two cottages on the boulevard, the property of the water department, which were built many years ago and were occupied by employees of the department. At the present time, the engineer of one of the stations is living in one, but it is expected that they will be purchased and removed.

THE ABBOTT CASE TO BE ARGUED

Members of Municipal Council to Appear Before Supreme Judicial Court

Constable Ezra E. Mansor was a visitor at city hall today and his mission was to hand summonses to the five commissioners and the city hall reporters to appear before the supreme judicial court in Boston tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock to give evidence on an action for a writ of mandamus secured by attorneys for C. Arthur Abbott, assessor, plaintiff, and Stephen Flynn, city clerk, et als., defendant.

Assessors Busy
The assessors are today very busy compiling the annual valuations for the year.

Chairs Repaired
The lands and buildings department today returned to city hall a number of chairs that prior to the inception of the present government were thrown in the attic of the hall and the chairs came back all fixed up and painted. In years gone by, when a chair was broken in any way it was consigned to the attic, but when Commissioner Cummings took charge of the department and went looking things over he "discovered" enough chairs to supply the needs of all the offices in the place and also a few extras. He conferred with the fixers, with the result that the old seats were taken and touched up and repaired to look like new. The department team arrived at the hall this morning with a large load of the repaired furniture, and now City Messenger Mounahan says that they have an adequate number to accommodate even the large crowds on inauguration day.

Plans Considered
Mayor James E. O'Donnell, Commissioner Cummings, Inspector Francis P. Connor and Architect Henry L. Rourke had a conference at the mayor's office and considered proposed plans and changes for the board of health, stables on Broadway and Fletcher street.

$25,000 Addition
The inspector of lands and buildings today issued a permit to the Waneis Power company of Lawrence street for the erection of an addition to the present plant of the company. Owing to the increased business of the company more room is needed and hence the request for the permit for enlargement.

There will be two additions to the plant, one to be erected on the side where the other will be attached to the front of the building. The side addition will be one-story high while the other will be four. The one-story building will be 48x145 feet, while the four-story structure will be 48x121 feet.

The foundations will be of concrete, while the walls will be of granite and brick. Work will be started at once and it is estimated that the building will cost $25,000.

Other Permits
An Estelle Rundlett, of 5 Robbins street, was granted a permit to erect a bungalow at 19 Troy street, corner of Putnam avenue. The building will be of cement and wood and will include four rooms, pantry and bath on first floor, one room above and basement and will be 27x33x19.

THE WOOL BILL

LEADERS IN SENATE EXPECT A GREAT FIGHT

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Senate leaders today began lining up forces for the three day tariff fight that was expected to begin with the consideration of the wool bill. With both republican and democratic forces both decided upon a plan, the situation appeared unusually complicated.

The democratic wool bill was to be taken up for amendment when the senate met. Senator Smoot's bill might be brought in, many senators thought. The wool bill and the excise tax bill follow the wool bill.

The prospect of agreement between the senate and house on the tariff measures seemed to be lessened by the avowed purpose of Senator Graham to present an amendment for the repeal of Canadian reciprocity. The senate has passed such an amendment on the metal bill but the house refused to accept it. Some indication of the line of action was expected to be indicated by the filing up of the forces after today's session.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION BILL

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The workmen's compensation bill was not reported by the house judiciary committee today, as its supporters had hoped, and its opponents say this indicates no action will be taken at this session of congress. The senate has passed the bill.

FIREMEN TO DRILL

The members of those companies 8 and 12 and Truck company 4 will hold a drill at the West Sixth street fire station at 8 o'clock tonight. The work will be under the direction of Deputy Chief Saunders.

The drill includes the laying of several lines of hose, the raising of ladders and the carrying of the lines to the roof of the building.

These drills, which are held weekly under the direction of Deputies Sullivan and Saunders, have resulted in a big improvement in the activity of the firemen.

The members of the Wolf Tonn Guards will hold their regular drill and meeting at their armory in Market street tomorrow night. Arrangements will be made for the annual field day on Labor day and other matters of importance will be considered.

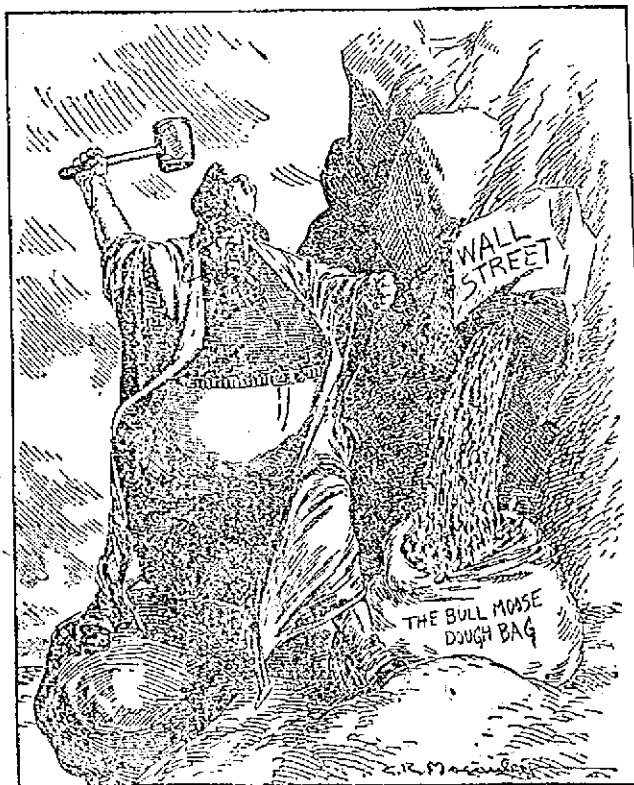

TRYING TO SETTLE STRIKE

BOSTON, July 25.—Efforts to settle the strike of motormen and conductors of the Boston Elevated railroad and an investigation into the causes and its developments were continued today at the state house and the court house.

Gov. Foss expressed himself as hopeful of an early adjustment of differences between the strikers and the officials of the company.

District Attorney Pelletier presented Director Richard of the elevated road to the grand jury today as one of the witnesses in his investigation of the strike.

Sponsors for Progressive Party in New York Greeted by Colonel Roosevelt

NEW YORK, July 25.—The men who will be provisional county chairmen of the new Progressive party have met Colonel Roosevelt and have signed pledges to support the platform and candidates of the party. Colonel Roosevelt met his backers at the local headquarters, and after telling them that he could "see that the bull moose is a pretty vigorous animal" he outlined the plans and purposes of the party. The delegates later arranged for the trip to Chicago to the Progressive convention next month.

MAIL FLIRTATIONS TO BE STOPPED

Postmaster General Has Issued Orders

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Approving individual action taken by postmasters

of many large cities, Postmaster General Hitchcock has issued a general order which has the avowed purpose of checking the use of general delivery windows for carrying on flirtations and clandestine correspondence.

Any persons who wish mail at general delivery windows instead of home addresses may hereafter be required to give their reasons in writing. Many complaints have been received by the postoffice department that service at general delivery windows was being improperly used by minors, particularly young girls, and by residents ordinarily served by mail carriers. Under the postal regulations, postmasters may require all persons to furnish in writing their names and addresses and statements of their reasons for preferring to receive their mail at the general delivery. In addition, minors may be required to furnish the names of their parents, in order that the latter may be notified and have an opportunity to control the delivery of mail to their children.

Postmasters at offices not having city carrier service may notify the parents of minors in all instances where it appears to them that the minors are using the general delivery to obtain mail under objectionable conditions. Postmaster General Hitchcock directs all postmasters to enforce the regulations strictly and impartially.

AUNT SALLY'S ADVICE TO BEAUTY SEEKERS

K. C. F. asks: "Will you tell me how to get my hands white and soft? They have become rough and are so dark in contrast to my arms." The method mentioned in reply to Eloise will bring the desired results; wear gloves to prevent drying the skin.

D. N. A. writes: "How can I reduce a double chin? Also how get rid of crow's feet?" Use a wash lotion prepared by dissolving 1 oz. powdered salicylic acid in 1/2 pint witch hazel. This tightens the skin, tending to disperse wrinkles as well as lubbiness about the chin or elsewhere.

Eloise says: "My freckles are worse than ever this year, made doubly conspicuous by a pallid complexion. Is there any cure?" Ask your druggist for an ounce of mercurized wax, apply nightly like cold cream, removing in the morning with warm water. As the wax gradually absorbs the freckles, the color, not only will the freckles vanish, but the new and younger skin which appears will have a healthy, color. Probably you will need to continue treatment a week or more.—Woman's Realm.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The members of Princess lodge, I. O. O. F. of St. George met in regular session at Odd Fellows temple Tuesday night. There was a large attendance and considerable routine business was transacted. Present also was a large delegation of members of Lady Washington lodge of Lawrence. The recently elected officers were installed by the D. D. Grand President Mrs. Lillie Hild, assisted by P. P. Nellie Hasen as grand conductor; P. P. Hannah M. Orrell, grand secretary; P. P. Ada Wood as grand treasurer; P. P. Mary H. Brown as grand chaplain. The newly elected president, Mrs. Sarah W. Mitchell appointed the following committee on entertainment: Sisters Orrell, Wood and Meers; on visiting the sick, Sisters Hild, Shannon, Rattie, Ruden, Scholz, Ireland and Thompson for Lowell; Sister Whitehead for North Billerica; and Sister Stephen for North Chelmsford. The semi-annual reports showed the lodge to be making a gain, both financially and numerically. After the meeting a social hour was enjoyed, and remarks given by several of the visiting sisters.

Woman's Relief Corps
E. F. Butler, W. R. C. 75, observed W. R. C. day by taking a trip to Portsmouth, N. H., where the party were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Randall of 50 Marston avenue.

The ladies in the party went to Hampton beach by trolley and spent a short time at the famous resort. They then proceeded to Portsmouth, where a lobster dinner was served by the hostess. After dinner the party divided, one section visiting the historical places around the city, and the other going to the navy yard and inspecting the sights there.

The return was made late in the evening, with every member of the party agreed that it was the premier outing of the corps.

Pythian Sisters
The regular meeting of Dorcas temple, Pythian Sisters, was held last night, M. E. Chief Sister Potter presiding. The visiting committee reported that P. C. Sister King of Dorset and Sister Mayhew were ill. Much enthusiasm is being displayed at the present time on account of the 14th district convention which meets with Dorcas temple, Wednesday, Oct. 9. Seven temples will be represented on that occasion, and a good time is expected. An exhibition drill will be given by the excellent degree staff of Dorcas temple, under the guidance of Capt. CHILDREN INJURED
THEY FELL THROUGH AIR SHAFT TO BASEMENT

BOSTON, July 25.—Three children, while playing on the roof of a dwelling at 103 Chelsea street, East Boston, yesterday, fell through an air shaft to the basement 35 feet below, crashing through a thick glass covering over the opening, yet all three are expected to recover.

The unfortunate youngsters are Rose Ferrarra, 9 years old; Mary Delcora 5, and John Delcora 4. The last two are children of Mrs. Pino Delcora of 101 Chelsea street and the Ferrarra girl is the daughter of Mrs. Amelia Ferrarra of 470 Commercial street.

The roof where the children were playing is surrounded by a fence, which seemed to make it safe and it has been regarded by children of the vicinity as a roof garden. The 1/2-inch glass covering of the shaft was already partly broken, yet the three children are said to have been standing on it at the moment they broke through.

The shaft through which they fell is about four feet square and that they were not killed is believed to be due to their fall having been broken by contract with the side walls.

The children were rescued by three men who were passing. The men were Louis Barbore of 3 London court, East Boston; Antonio Minovi and Mariana Nasami, both of 133 Salem street North End. At the Relief hospital in East Boston, where the injured children were taken, Dr. Henderson and Dr. Murphy said that all had received bad multiple injuries, but not of a fatal character.

LOWELL PLAYING GREAT BALL

They Came From Behind
Once More and Defeated N. Bedford

NEW BEDFORD, July 25.—Lowell handed it to New Bedford, the hoodoo team for the champs, yesterday afternoon by the score of 8 to 4 in a game that at the early stages looked like the Whalers. When the Lowell hitting kids got started there was nothing to it but the cheering and Lowell took the lead and took home the bacon, incidentally moving up a little nearer the front of the procession.

Prutt, who had had great luck against the Lowell men, was on the mound for the Whalers, and Zeiser, who went in and saved the game at Fall River on the previous day, was Manager Gray's selection. For the first time in Lowell's history, Prutt had the Grays' breaking their backs reaching for them but in the fifth they found the breaks and straightened a few of them out and they continued straightening 'em for the remainder of the game.

Zeiser got a bad start, but settled down and pitched one grand game. His work was remarkable after the way his curves were found in the opening series. He held his opponents well in hand, and though many of the Whalers' batters were generally dead there. Capt. Jake Bouttes led in the hitting for the Lowell team, getting three singles, two for singles and the other a double. He also played a good game in the field. Jake's hits were the ones that count, too, for two of them came with men on. Babe De Groff was sent to the bench for disputing a decision, and Wolfgang took his place. The last time there was with the little hit and it was an important one at that. Halstead continued his hitting, and Clemens batted out a couple of good sacrifice flies. There was only one stolen base during the game, that being made by De Groff, the Lowell shortstop.

New Bedford scored two runs on the second inning, on Ness' two bagger to left, Griffiths' double to left and Spies' single, the latter being of the horseshoe order, as the ball went over Zeiser's head on a bad throw. In the third New Bedford added one to the two. O'Connell hit one to Zeiser, which the latter booted, and the error figured in the scoring for Morris, the next man up, booted, scoring O'Connell.

Miller broke the piled of "nothings" in the fifth, when he batted the ball to left for three bases and scored on the throw to get him the ball going to the bleachers. Bouttes double to left and De Groff hit to Delaney who fumbled and Jake took third, Monahan hit to Delaney, who threw to the plate to get Bouttes, but the latter went back to third as the throw to the plate was a good one. Zeiser fanned. Clemens sent out a long sacrifice fly and Bouttes scored. Magee ended the inning on a fly.

Lowell had the start and kept right to it and in the sixth added one more when De Groff left off with a double and went to third on Halstead's out, and after Miller went out trying to work the squeeze play, (he) Rube scored on Bouttes' hit. Bouttes attempted to steal and went out. De Groff disputed the decision and was regulated to the stable.

In the seventh Lowell piled up four more which practically settled the game. De Groff hit to Maranville, who lost the ball and the Lowell shortstop was safe. Joe Monahan came across with a double to center. Zeiser struck out. Clemens fled out to left and De Groff hit home. Magee bunted to Prutt.

who was up in the air and made a wild swing to first and Monahan scored. Wolfgang singled to center and Magee scored. Halstead singled to right and Wolfgang counted and Halstead went to third on O'Connell's home heave. Miller ended the inning on a ground to Maranville.

The ninth inning brought another one for Lowell. Clemens beat out a bunt and went to third on Magee's double and scored when Wolfgang hit to Maranville. The last time there was with the little hit and it was an important one at that. Halstead continued his hitting, and Clemens batted out a couple of good sacrifice flies. There was only one stolen base during the game, that being made by De Groff, the Lowell shortstop.

Bouttes double to left and De Groff hit to Delaney who fumbled and Jake took third, Monahan hit to Delaney, who threw to the plate to get Bouttes, but the latter went back to third as the throw to the plate was a good one. Zeiser fanned. Clemens sent out a long sacrifice fly and Bouttes scored. Magee ended the inning on a fly.

Lowell had the start and kept right to it and in the sixth added one more when De Groff left off with a double and went to third on Halstead's out, and after Miller went out trying to work the squeeze play, (he) Rube scored on Bouttes' hit. Bouttes attempted to steal and went out. De Groff disputed the decision and was regulated to the stable.

In the seventh Lowell piled up four more which practically settled the game. De Groff hit to Maranville, who lost the ball and the Lowell shortstop was safe. Joe Monahan came across with a double to center. Zeiser struck out. Clemens fled out to left and De Groff hit home. Magee bunted to Prutt.

DIAMOND NOTES
One more. First!
Double header tomorrow at Spalding park. Fall River the attraction. First game at two o'clock.
Zeiser is surely some heavier, regardless of his tendency at times to be wild.
Don't lose sight of the Lowell club in that pretty little race in the New England league. Lawrence and Brookton are having a merry fight, but Jim Gray's club is trailing them. Lowell has practically the same club that won the pennant last year. (See—Bob Dunbar, Boston Journal.)
We're not. Have entered the pennant and engaged the hotel for opening day next season.
Capt. Jake did some nice work yesterday, leading his team at the bat with three hits and playing around the hot corner like Larry Gardner.
Wolfgang was again pressed into service, this time as an outfielder, and he was there too.
Miller started the trouble with his fine triple, and he got that hitting eye working, look out for the train, just stop, look and listen.
It is expected that the boys will be given a grand welcome home tomorrow when they come to Spalding park and meet Fall River in a holiday bill. The first game will start at two o'clock. The southern trip has been a great success, regardless of how today's game goes and the representatives of the Spalding city in the New England league are worthy of a little applause.
Today is Eagles' day at New Bedford and many of the Lowell "Ayers" went to Whale town, where they will undoubtedly take in the Lowell-New Bedford game. Among the Lowell team who went down today was John H. Cull, secretary of the Lowell team. John carries the money bag and ex-

QUEEN WORTHY WINS
$10,000 M. & M. STAKE

Superb Driving by Murphy the Feature of the Hard Fought Battle

DETROIT, July 25.—Masterful driving by Thomas W. Murphy won the 1912 renewal of the Merchants and Manufacturers' stake after the greatest race in the history of that classic. Queen Worthy, given a close decision in the first heat, appeared to be tired out in the next three, but she came back in the fifth and won by a half's breadth, Murphy making no mistake in his calculation in either of the heats in which he finished first.

The public disagreed with the judges in both of the decisions which placed Murphy's mare in front, thinking that The Wanderer had won the first heat and Blaine Holt the fifth, but the judges are the only ones in a position to say which wins in a nose finish, and the laurels go to the young New Yorker, who today stands as premier of the reinmen of America.

Never was a renewal of the M. & M. fought through five heats with such vigor. Four horses in turn won heats. Queen Worthy, Dave Halle, Arona McKinney and Blaine Holt. Then Queen Worthy won the fifth, the conditions ending the race at that period, so long as no horses at the top were tied in the summary.

There were times when Dorsh Medium and Dictator looked formidable, but in a grueling contest from the start of the first mile until the cheers of the hurrying crowd greeted the winner.

Careful Preparation for Race
The winner of the M. & M. this year has a rather unique distinction. She is the dam of two colts. When very young she was sent to the brood mare ranks, and last year, it is said, that the second foal was brought up on a bottle, so that she could be trained without having any maternal cares.

A. H. Cosen of New York, who owns Queen Worthy, had sent her to Murphy, who trained her through the season, going very easy with the mare. She had shown a rare burst of speed, and took to the race track like a duck to water. In the winter it was announced that Murphy would stake her down the line.

Murphy had won almost all of the other stakes and big purses, but the M. & M. had kept out of his reach, so that he gave her the most careful preparation for the Blue Ribbon classic.

Queen Worthy started at Lansing, Grand Rapids and Kalamazoo in turn, and won every heat in which she turned for the money, although she did not have to go faster than 2:05 1/2 to land the money. Whether this would win Detroit's big stake was a question, but Murphy thought it was in the mare, or he would not have driven her in preference to Dictator Todd, which won in 2:05 1/2 for him last week. How good his judgment was is told in the summary, for the other one was outside of the money.

Considering the condition of the track and racing in the M. & M. was little short of wonderful. The track was deep mud in the morning, following rain. When the races were called it was soft and very lively.

The drawing power of the old classic was shown in the crowd, which approached the 10,000 mark in spite of a cloudy day, which looked as though it was apt to turn to a hard rain any minute.

The track was from two to five seconds slow, hence the miles are good ones, showing that 2:05 probably would have been beaten if the day and footing had been of the sort that greeted the starters on the other afternoons.

Eleven horses took the word in the M. & M., the largest field in many years. It was the race for which the spectators were waiting, and they did not hesitate to make Murphy's mare, Queen Worthy, favorite at $200, Dictator Todd selling at $55, Dorsh Medium $65, Blaine Holt $60, Dave Halle $35, The Wanderer $25 and the field $25.

The Wanderer had drawn the pole, while Queen Worthy was in the tenth position, and all of them kept well to the middle and outside of the track. Murphy got away well, so that by the time they reached the turn he was in front, with The Wanderer and Lady Green Goods next to him.

Blaine Holt broke on the turn and at the quarter Queen Worthy had an open length on The Wanderer, which gelding closed up on the back stretch and was at her wheel at the half, where Dictator Todd was third and Arona McKinney fourth.

Dictator Todd broke before reaching the three-quarters and Queen Worthy was first to show in the stretch. The Wanderer was right after her, and in a driving finish Macey brought him up, forcing Murphy to reef and lift.

Many thought The Wanderer had won, but Murphy's mare had caught the eyes of the judges. Blaine Holt was four lengths back in third, having made up a lot, while Arona McKinney was fourth. The announcement of the placing of the horses was followed by cheers from those who did not agree with the judges.

When the paraded for the second heat Macey was given an ovation, being applauded every time he passed the stand, while there was not much commotion in the direction of Murphy. Blaine Holt had been made favorite at $100 against $130 on the field, but he broke soon after the word and again Queen Worthy showed the way, with The Wanderer next and Dictator Todd third. Dave Halle had left the rear bunch and was stepping fast, moving up to third at the three-quarters, where Dictator Todd jumped.

As the rounded into the stretch Dave Halle advanced to second and at the distance flag he had Queen Worthy beaten.

Geers was coming very fast with Dorsh Medium and would have won the heat, but the mare broke in the last part and ran under the wire. The heat, in 2:10 1/4, was the fastest of the race.

Macey had been distanced in the first heat and Lady Green Goods, Lord Guster and Ella Todd were on the far side of the red flag this time.

This heat made another shift in the betting, as the crowd went to Dorsh Medium at $50, while the field stood for $100.

Cox got Arona McKinney going well in the third mile and she led Dictator Todd and Dave Halle around the bend, the Todd horse breaking at the three-eighths. Blaine Holt trotted up to second at the half, where Geers was last.

When they straightened away for home Blaine Holt and Dave Halle came on after Arona McKinney, but both broke and Cox mare won without a bit of trouble by a length.

Play Arona McKinney at Even
Many thought that the race was as good as over and they played Arona McKinney at even against the field. Queen Worthy broke early, but caught quickly and Arona McKinney and The Wanderer made a race of it along the back stretch.

Dictator Todd had made another mistake and Blaine Holt was third at the half, getting around the last turn all right and being in striking distance when he reached the stretch. The colt came very fast and, beating The Wanderer, he caught and passed Arona McKinney near the end, winning easily.

This made Blaine Holt $100, and the field $35 before the fifth heat, which must end the race if any of the four should win. Murphy was careful with Queen Worthy and took her away in front, with Arona McKinney and Blaine Holt in attendance. They were lapped at the half, but on the turn Queen Worthy drew away. Geers having come up to fourth with a rush, but retiring on a break. Blaine Holt was second as they came into the stretch and again began to gain on the leader. Murphy never drove better than his horse here, for he put every ounce of his strength into it, encouraging the tiring mare and keeping her on the trot, while the black colt kept closing in, first his head, then his neck and shoulders and flank passing the driver, and when they passed the line nobody except the judges knew which had won, the decision going to Queen Worthy.

Three other races were on the card, and they were won by Cox, Jimmy Benson and Eagan. The 222 trot had 11 starters and the first heat saw a crowd finish. Thistle Down had worked his way up to the lead, but in the stretch Cox came along with Mary G. and in a hard drive he won by a head. After that Mary G. did not have much trouble, trailing until the last part of each mile and then coming away and winning.

The 207 pace had a classy field of 15 and Sunny Jim was the pacemaker in the opening heat, with Braden Direct, the favorite, close enough to step by at the head of the stretch and win easily. King Ephraim made a great finish in second place.

Longworth R led in the second heat to the last part, where Braden Direct again paced by the heat in 2:05 being creditable.

The feature for Thursday is the free-for-all pace with the biggest and fastest field in late years. The starters will be Don Denmore, Evelyn W. Hat R. Jr., Independence Boy, Ross K.

Sir R. and Vernon McKinney. The summary:

HOUSE THAT IS HAUNTED SURROUNDED BY CROWDS

None Dares to Enter the Place
—Ghosts Have House to
Themselves

BOSTON, July 25.—"Ghosts" held undisputed sway again last night in South Hanover's "haunted house." With the coming of the darkness, the parish house of the Church of the Sacred Heart, where uncanny happenings have caused such mystery and terror that the pastor, Fr. Charles F. Donohue, and his household have been forced to give up the house at night, was once more deserted by human beings.

Fr. Donohue spent the night at the home of a neighbor, Arthur Graham. His housekeeper, Miss Margaret O'Connell, stayed at the residence of another neighbor.

Outside the locked and deserted house, though, the early evening found gathered a crowd of people who had heard of the eerie noises and the weird work of invisible hands which overturned furniture, shattered household articles and ripped linen into shreds. Anxiously the crowd watched the house, as if in fearful hope that some of the terrifying demonstrations might appear to their view.

Not until late at night did these in the curious crowd leave. When they began to disperse, they did so swiftly. No one seemed to want to be left alone in the dark outside the modest little house on which the moon shone peacefully.

The story of the house has gone far and wide, and has made it an object of curiosity to the people of the surrounding towns. In every part of Plymouth county there is unusual interest in the strange developments it has seen. How widespread is the interest was shown yesterday when people came to South Hanover from neighboring towns for the express purpose of gazing on the dwelling. Hundreds of visitors were drawn to the town.

Fr. Donohue was busy about his parish duties yesterday, and devoted much of his time in completing arrangements for the garden party of the parishioners next Saturday afternoon and evening. It will be held on the grounds around the house of the strange happenings, although there is a possibility that if other grounds can be secured the party will be held elsewhere.

All through the town there are wild stories running, and growing in magnitude with each recital of the uncanny occurrences. Many of them are imaginary, but everybody agrees that the story narrated by Fr. Donohue himself is weird enough to make the house one of mystery.

It was learned that after the guard of 12 men left the house on Sunday, following the sight of the brass coturner projected down the stairs, more furniture was broken. On Monday it was found that Fr. Donohue's bed had been overturned and broken, that the sheets had been torn and the strips tied into knots. It was learned also that a comparatively common occurrence at the house of late was for flowers which had been left in a vase to be taken out and strewn over the room, while the water in the vase was sprinkled over the floor.

That's what Palzer did recently. He had been hammered into a state of grogginess two rounds before he won. But he is young, was in fine condition, and he recuperated fast. Yet a more terrific hitter than Wells probably would have knocked him out. In a mad bull rush, his fighting spirit crying for victory, Palzer landed one blow. Wells went down. He came up, but he was whipped for that moment.

A boxer such as Bombardier will never beat Palzer. A fighter with a great punch and ability to stand up under a lick scored now and then by the Iowa boy in his furious rushes might. $8000 DAMAGE CAUSED BY FIRE

Blaze in Dry Goods District in Boston

BOSTON, July 25.—Fire damaged the Kingston building, at Kingston and Essex streets to the extent of $8000 early last evening.

Box 54, located at Beach and Oxford streets, was pulled by Serg. Fitzgerald of Station 4, who discovered flames bursting out of the fifth floor windows. There was also an automatic alarm from the building. Immediately upon his arrival Chief Mullen ordered an alarm from box 50, located directly in front of the building, which acted as a second alarm.

With the arrival of the first truck ladders were run up on the Edinboro street side of the building and the flames were confined to the northwest corner.

The building is occupied on the sixth floor by the Boston Superior Petting Company and on the fifth floor by Davis Frank & Co., manufacturers of underwear, and the Fred M. Batchelder company, uniform manufacturers. These firms suffered the greatest loss by water and fire, but the occupants of the floor below, Will W. Mayhew, overalls and shirts, and the Ideal Neckwear company, had some water damage.

Located in the heart of the dry goods section, this building has suffered several times from fire within the past few years.

Judge Burke found probable cause and held the woman under $500 bonds for the grand jury.

According to the testimony, McGonagle was on his way home from work when she threw the acid in his face, burning him badly. It all happened in front of the Church of St. Leonard of Port Maurice, Prince and Salem streets. The woman was burned badly too, and has been under the care of a doctor since her arrest. She was in a very weak condition in court and had to be assisted to the stand by attendants.

Special Officer McDonald of the Hanover street station made the arrest.

EX-SEN. BEVERIDGE

HAS DECIDED TO JOIN PROGRESSIVE PARTY

INDIANAPOLIS, July 25.—Former Senator Albert Beveridge formally renounced allegiance to the republican party in a letter received by W. H. Dye, a leader of the progressive party in Indiana.

Mr. Beveridge, who is spending the summer at Seal Harbor, Me., says the letter is intended as an answer to queries of many Indiana friends, who sought to know his position concerning the progressive party. He says in his letter that if the new party does no more for Indiana than to oust the old line political bosses it will have performed a great blessing to the state.

PRIZE DOG

IS ON EXHIBITION AT RIKER-JAYNES

Bizzie B. A. K. C., 163119, the prize winning Boston terrier, which has won cups and prizes all over the country, and is considered one of the world's best breed dogs, is on exhibition in one of the display windows of the Riker-Jaynes drug store on Merrimack street. The dog is known as the eastern and western champion, and has won medals at every kennel exhibition that it has entered. The numerous cups, medals and badges won by the terrier are also in evidence in the window. Such an enviable record has the dog established that numerous offers for its purchase have been made, and several times have offers of $2000 been refused. The prize canine is beautifully marked and a regular pet. The dog has been shown in most of the large cities throughout the country and is in charge of James Steffen, who is connected with the Dr. A. C. Daniels' company of Boston.

Bizzie B. is fed and kept in condition on Dr. A. C. Daniels' dog cakes and remedies and is a great favorite of the Dr. Daniels' medicated dog bread which is manufactured expressly for dogs and puppies from the best of everything required for dog food. The manufacturer boasts that the bread is of such quality that it is eaten by human beings. The prize dog has the medicated bread three times a day, and Mr. Steffen says that in the event of failing to give the animal its supply at every meal it will be cranky all day. This very seldom happens though, inasmuch as the owners of the dog claim that its remarkable success is due to the excellent condition that the animal is kept in by constantly feeding it with Dr. Daniels' preparations.

The dog will remain here until Monday next and all are invited to pay a visit to the store and have a look and also interview Mr. Steffen, who is an interesting talker and who will explain and answer all questions pertaining to the dog and the feed that is given the animal.

RURAL SCHOOLS

THE ONE LAGGARD IN EDUCATIONAL PROGRESSION

"The rural school is the one laggard in the educational procession," declares E. T. Fairchild, Kansas State Superintendent of Public Instruction, in a monograph just published for free distribution by the United States bureau of education.

This condition is due, among other things, to the fact that the emphasis of educational thought has been placed on the city schools, the high schools, and the colleges, at the expense of the rural school. Mr. Fairchild also finds that "the over-increasing trend of population toward the cities, and the growing per cent of tenant farmers, have a distinct and deterrent effect upon our country schools."

The following is a true, though not a full indictment," continues Mr. Fairchild. "Of the 12,000,000 rural school children, constituting a clear majority of the whole number of the youth of school age, less than 25 per cent are completing the work of the grades. The teaching body is immature and lacks proper training. Terms are short.

School buildings are poor, insanitary and ill-equipped. The school enrollment is constantly decreasing. The supervision is wholly inadequate. Cost of instruction is higher than in the grades. High school privileges are denied the great majority of these boys and girls.

The strong, virile, rural school of a generation ago has gone, and in its place is a primary school weak in numbers and lacking in efficiency. The country boy and girl of this strenuous and complex twentieth century are not afforded equal educational opportunities.

"A vital weakness in our rural-school system is the lack of a genuine demand for properly trained teachers. I have knowledge of one state that bears an excellent reputation educationally where, out of 8000 rural schoolteachers in 1910, 4400 were found to have had no training beyond the eighth grade.

"If we want to get more out of the rural schools, we must put more into them. We can never have the best rural schools until we have aroused public interest in them. The national life and character of tomorrow is set and directed by the schools of today.

The country is the nation's great recruiting ground. To it the city has always looked for its supply of men who do the great things, who command armies, build industries, take the initiative.

"It is true that the cities are the centers of organization, but they are not self-sustaining. The rural population must always be the bone and sinew of any country. More than one-half of our school population is trained in the rural schools. These schools are inadequate."

LOWELL CHURCH FEDERATION

Rev. George F. Kennegott, chairman of the Lowell Church Federation, sends the following announcement to the Sun:

There will be a religious service on Labor Sunday, September 1st, at 3.30 p. m., on the South common, under the joint auspices of the Lowell Church Federation and the Trades and Labor Council. There will be good speaking by representatives from both organizations and excellent music.

"He bit the hand that fed him," said Teddy of Big Bill, And didn't tell us if the bite had made the biter ill, Now had Teasties been the subject of Bill's voracious bite He'd hate come back for another with a keener appetite.

THREE MEN KILLED IN A TRAIN WRECK

Express Train Crashed Into a Freight—Polo Ponies Injured and Autos Destroyed

STONINGTON, Conn., July 25.—Three men were killed and four injured in the sidwinding of a freight train by the east-bound Adams express train at Stonington Junction yards of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad this morning. The freight, which was also towing several locomotives, was backing into the yards when the express came along. There was not sufficient clear room and the express engine struck the other, but, toppling over, completely wrecked. Two cars of the express were also wrecked but the remainder of the train, which was made up of steel cars withstood the shock. A part of the wreckage struck the signal tower, tearing out one corner of it and forcing Fred Withers, the towerman, to jump to safety.

The wreckage took fire but the flames were put out by the Stonington fire department. In one of the wrecked cars were a number of polo ponies, consigned to the Point Judith polo club at Narragansett pier and two of these were so badly injured that they had to be killed. In the other wrecked car of the express were three or four automobiles and these were ruined.

Towerman Withers thinks the wreck was caused by the failure of the signal apparatus to work. He says he set the signals against the express.

Engineer Mansfield of the express says that the distance signal was clear but that he did not see the home signal, which was set against him until he was too close to stop. Speaking of the accident Mansfield said that the first thing he knew of an impending collision was when his whistle yelled to him that the home signal was red and told him he had better "pull up." He did so and just before the crash came they jumped.

LONG SENTENCE FOR WHITE SLAVER

The Convicted Man Arraigned by Judge

NEW YORK, July 25.—The limit of the law, in fine and imprisonment, was given in a "white slave" case in the court of general sessions yesterday by Judge O'Sullivan, who scored the prisoner before an approving crowd. Joseph Milton, 35 years old and a bartender, pleaded guilty to a charge of keeping a house of prostitution. He was sentenced to a term of from 10 to 20 years in Sing Sing and a fine of $5000, which, at the usual rate, means about 13 years.

Milton was convicted of selling into slavery 20-year-old Annie Lerner, an immigrant whom he found in an employment agency. The evidence against him was secured by immigration inspector Michael O'Brien, who is working up other cases.

SUES FOR $10,000

R. J. SULLIVAN NAMES SCHOOL PRINCIPAL AS DEFENDANT

BOSTON, July 25.—Richard J. Sullivan, 37 Grimes street, South Boston, has brought suit for $10,000 against J. Gardner Bassett, the moral suasion master of the Bigelow school, in which assault and battery on Richard J. Sullivan, Jr., May 10 last is charged. The cardroom of the boy's last year is burst. It is claimed, as a result of the alleged assault.

That the drum is burst as a result of some accident is proven beyond all doubt. The oils used pass directly through the passage in the head normally blocked by the eardrum and run into the lad's mouth. Dr. Simon F. Curran, of 104 North street, Dorchester, who attended Richard, is apprehensive of infection to the other ear.

Michael Sullivan, attorney for the boy, has attached property in Bridgewater, where Mr. Bassett resides. Mr. Bassett has not been heard from as yet in the fifth grade of the Bigelow school.

Master Bassett's school has long been famed for the friendship between teachers and the 1200 pupils. The hobby of the master was to appeal to a boy's manly qualities, call in the assistance of parents in diagnosis of physical faults and the eradication of physical force.

This statement and suit of Mr. Sullivan came as a surprise to those who have taken keen interest in Mr. Bassett's policy of many years.

HANGED HIMSELF

MAN'S BODY WAS DISCOVERED BY HIS DAUGHTER

GREENE, Me., July 25.—Adelard Provancher of Lewiston committed suicide yesterday morning by hanging himself at the Daggett farm, where he was spending the summer with his family. He formerly lived in Biddeford but came to Lewiston about two years ago and went to work for Ernest Saunders.

This spring Mr. Saunders bought the Daggett farm and placed Mr. Provancher in charge. His body was discovered hanging in the washhouse by his 12-year-old daughter when she went to call him to breakfast. No cause is assigned for his act.

Mr. Provancher was about 36 years old. He leaves a son, who is in the Army, a daughter and two sons under 5 years of age, three sisters and three brothers.

MORTIMER SNOW

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Mortimer Snow & Co. in "A Bachelor's Dilemma" have won considerable applause throughout the week at the Merrimack Square theatre on a bill which has proven, by the capacity audiences which have greeted it every afternoon and evening, to be one of the most popular given at the theatre. The play, which they present is a remarkably clever bit of dramatic construction, full of tense and unusual situations as well as bright lines and witty repartee which seldom fail to win a hearty laugh.

The other features on this week's bill, the "Mexican Herman," an exceedingly clever magician with a quaint little accent and smiling face; Johnson & Wentworth, dainty dancers and singers, and Miss Alice Bagley with her illustrated songs, have all proven to be remarkably popular with the enthusiastic audiences which have packed this popular theatre every day.

Today the new series of motion pictures, which will run the remainder of the week, will be put on and they should prove to be just as bright and interesting as those shown the first three days of this week.

LAKEVIEW DANCE HALL

John Y. Myers, the well known soloist at the Lakeview dance hall, conducted a novelty dancing party at the hall last evening, and there was a large attendance of dancers, who greatly enjoyed the evening's program. Here for that Mr. Myers will for the remainder of the week give a number of Harry Lander's Scotch selections. In his own inimitable manner. Added to this feature there is still another, inasmuch as Z. L. Bissonette, one of Lowell's best musicians, will give a number of piano solos and will also play in duets with Tom Pool, the latter on the drums and bells. Mr. Pool will play xylophone and bell solos and will also play with the other members of the orchestra for dancing. The orchestra which is recognized as one of the best in the vicinity will play, upon request, a number of Harry Lander's famous numbers. The floor is great and all are assured of a delightful time at the hall, which is one of the best in New England.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

Only three more days remain to witness "The Hand of Man," played by Prince Elwood and his company at Lakeview park this week. Mr. Elwood's popularity grows with each performance and, judging from the applause, he and his company are making a decided hit with Lowellites. Besides the drama itself, there are three vaudeville acts given by Mr. Elwood and two other members of his company. John Walsh, the fellow with the comedy feet, certainly deserves the title. His equal would be hard to find. Also Eugene Shea, the man who makes the violin talk, does many clever tricks.

THEATRE VOYONS

Today's new program at the Theatre Voyons is a most pleasing one; its feature is "Back of Ages," a Vitaphone dramatic subject telling a most touching story of a woman's trial and her sacrifice to her first love. Pathé's Weekly is a most interesting number and "The Little Artist of the Market" is a fine Edison drama. One of the musical features will be "My Dreamy Rose," sung by Miss Nela Daggett and the Voyons trio with special light and motion picture effects.

THE KASINO

Many of the old timers and hundreds of "young timers" enjoyed the program at The Kasino last night. The Kasino orchestra, under direction of James H. Buckley, gave a concert preceding dancing, and the program was made up entirely of the old time music. Of the same character was music for the dancing, and hundreds renewed their youth to the tuneful orchestral cadences. Dancing sessions are held afternoon and evening at The Kasino, and Old Timers night comes every Wednesday.

COL. ROOSEVELT

TO ATTACK DEMOCRATIC AND REPUBLICAN ORGANIZATION

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 25.—Col. Roosevelt smiled today when he was told of the reports from Sea Girt that W. J. Bryan would follow his trail through the campaign. "Bryan?" he asked. "I don't see that there is anything for me to say at this time," he added.

Col. Roosevelt intends to attack the democratic and republican organizations with equal vigor as he has already done in the hope of placing his opponents on the defensive at the outset.

Col. Roosevelt was irritated by the opinion given by Jacob A. Livingston New York state election commissioner to the effect that under the law no candidates for presidential electors could be named by petition by the national progressive party in this state.

"That seems to be a development of the national committee idea that it is supreme," he said. "Mr. Livingston will find that he is very much mistaken."

BOY WAS KILLED

MAN INJURED

Express Train Hit Baker Cart at Webster

WEBSTER, July 25.—August Lubbeck, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lubbeck of Poland street, was instantly killed, and Joseph Kosloski, a baker, was seriously injured yesterday forenoon when the New York express, due to leave Webster at 9:05, crashed into a baker cart in which they were riding at Chaseville crossing, a quarter of a mile south of Webster station.

The accident occurred at the foot of Hill street. The driver did not hear the train until it was close upon him. Kosloski was hurled 20 feet and fell unconscious in a ditch near the track, where he was found by a trainman. The boy was instantly killed. He was caught on the fender and dragged about 160 yards.

Engineer Starks was unable to see the wagon as it approached the crossing because of trees and shrubbery at this point.

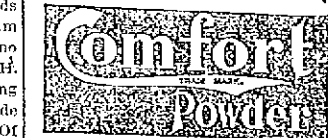

Kosloski was removed to the Worcester City hospital, where he is in a critical condition. The train was in charge of Engineer Edward Starks of Webster and Conductor Oscar Patch of Putnam, Conn.

Medical Examiner Johnson R. Woodward of Oxford view the body yesterday afternoon and pronounced death due to accident.

Besides his parents, the boy is survived by a sister and a brother.

Not Good to Eat

No you can't eat coal, but you will find it just as necessary as bread when it comes to cooking. Who wants to eat raw meats or vegetables. Nonsense of course—but sense—get good coal, the kind we provide summer and winter. Do you know the merits of coal from the famous Kingston colliery? If not, you have never had the best in coal.

THE earliest mention of the Isthmus of Panama occurs in a letter which Columbus wrote to Ferdinand and Isabella while he was shipwrecked on the coast of Jamaica at the end of his fourth and last voyage to the West Indies. The records of the expedition which really discovered Panama are meagre but they show that the discoverers picked up the mainland of South America near Trinidad, and coasted westward past the Gulf of Darien and along the Isthmus as far as Nombre de Dios. They were under the leadership of Rodrigo de Bastides, and the expedition put out from Colon in October, 1500. Vasco Nunez de Balboa was among them. This was another attempt on the part of Columbus to find a shorter passage to the Orient and it seems to have been his idea in coasting along the shores that he could find a water passageway that would lead to the far East. His dream or ambition was, of course, never realized, but after a lapse of more than four centuries American enterprise and capital are providing through artificial means the great canal or passage which the great discoverer thought existed naturally. The natives were Indians somewhat of the same race and character as the aborigines of Mexico and the Southwestern part of the United States. In time this part of the Western Hemisphere was settled by Spaniards who in mixing with the natives have founded the race which now inhabits Central America and the strip of land separating that country from South America. Balboa, who discovered the Pacific Ocean at Panama, was the first explorer to dispel the dream of Columbus and to teach European countries that the Orient was much farther to the westward and to reach it would require the traversing of an unknown sea for an unknown distance. His discovery of the Pacific Ocean was due to the suggestion of an Indian, and under the latter's guidance he crossed the Isthmus, following part of the way the path where the present canal is now located.

The first Spanish settlement on the Isthmus was at the beginning of the sixteenth century at a place called Santa Maria de la Anilquedel Darien. From this settlement many expeditions were made to discover the strait which it was still believed existed connecting the two oceans through the continent, and this belief still prevailed even after Magellan had passed through the straits of Terra del Fuego. Under the command of the King of Spain the coast line was thoroughly explored and every river and inlet tried but without avail. These expeditions were not without value, for new territory was discovered and added to the Spanish crown. Until the strait should be found land communication was with great difficulty established between the two oceans. The roadway, which crossed the Chagres River at Las Cruces, was paved and about ten feet wide. A little later it was ascertained that small vessels could sail up the Chagres River as far as Cruces and the balance of the trip was made overland. Nombre de Dios was the Atlantic port for a time, but was eventually abandoned, and about the year 1700 Porto Bella was selected on account of its superior location and because it was supposed to be more healthful. This means of communication, though crude, slow and unhealthy, was of great value to the Spaniards who had discovered the vast treasures of Peru, which in time found their way into the Royal Treasury of Spain after a long and varied trip by ship to Panama, then pack mules across the Isthmus and then again by vessel to Spain.

Even in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries Panama assumed commercial importance and considerable trade not only with the surrounding countries but also with the old country was developed. The arrival of vessels from Europe brought merchants from Central and South America, and the fairs held at Porto Bella in these days have become historic. It is even recorded that some commerce was established with the mainland of Asia through Panama, a port of the beginning of what will happen when Uncle Sam throws open the Canal for traffic between Europe and the Orient. In the olden days the very mention of Panama suggested wealth and luxury, and the City of Panama was known as the "Gate of the Universe." It was the receiving point for the gold and silver from Darien and South America and the splendid pearls gathered on the Gulf islands. During the seventeenth century it was considered one of the beautiful places of the world and contained more than twelve thousand buildings. There were palatial public buildings, gorgeous churches, a large depository for the King's treasure, eight monasteries and a magnificent hospital. The houses of the wealthy residents were built of stone or aromatic cedar, and were furnished in such elegance and comfort as could be obtained at that period. The Viceroy lived in splendor surrounded by the natives who were his slaves; money was plentiful, and life in old Panama was one of ease. There was no wall around the city—indeed, it seemed that none was needed. The enterprising buccaneer, however, learned of the wealth and prosperity of Panama and Henry Morgan, known as one of the boldest of this class, planned an expedition against the city. History tells us that this man was a native of Wales and the son of respectable parents. Early in life he took to sea and embarked for the Barbadoes. He soon joined the buccaneers and after a time saved enough money to join his comrades in equipping a ship of which he was chosen captain. He was a ruffian of the brutal type and without a spark of generosity in his nature. The wealth of Panama attracted him and he determined to capture the country. He assembled nine ships and nearly five hundred men of various nationalities and captured Porto Bella after a fierce fight. The pirates then sacked the conquered town and retired to the sea. Just before leaving, Morgan sent a message to the Governor of Panama telling him that he, Morgan, would visit him at no distant date. Toward the close of the year 1670 Morgan again planned an expedition, this time against the City of Panama. His force consisted of thirty-seven vessels and about two thousand pirates of the worst type. There was a fierce fight filled with indescribable horrors, and six hundred Spaniards were killed within three hours, and the beautiful City of Panama put to the torch. A few people escaped with their treasures, but the sudden and tragic fall of the city had a depressing effect upon the Spaniards and they did not rebuild upon the same spot. Today the ruins are a jungle with the old tower of St. Augustin rising above the rank tropical vegetation. Panama the Beautiful was never revived as the present city is built on a site about five miles distant. The old adage of locking the stable after the horse has been stolen applies to the new city, for it is said that more than eleven million dollars were spent to protect the new city by huge walls of masonry. The trade and the glories of old Panama, however, never returned and the new city later became a part of Colombia and was ruled from Bogota. The Isthmus remained a part of Colombia until 1903, when it became the Independent Republic of Panama.

Panama City today still retains all the characteristics of the typical Spanish city except that it is well paved and sewerage—the result of the American Canal building. It has curious old Spanish balconies which project over the sidewalks. The houses are built of stone with few windows and these are heavily barred. Many of them are built about a courtyard known as a patio. Several beautiful plazas dot the city. These have bandstands in the centre, for music is a part of Spanish life and in this the Panamanian is no exception. The Independence Plaza is, perhaps, the prettiest of these breathing spots, and here the rich and poor gather to listen to the music. The Cathedral with its great bells and twin spires is the most attractive church, but the ruins of the old Church of St. Dominic have an especial charm. The curious flat arch of this church is famous throughout the world as one of the extraordinary pieces of masonry.

At Colon the tide rises and falls less than two feet—that is, the surface of the ocean remains about the same level. At Panama the tide rises nearly twenty feet, consequently the boats must moor far out into the bay. The beach at low tide presents a curious sight, for it is strewn with the bones of the animals killed at the nearby slaughter houses. The buzzards clean the bones of every vestige of flesh a few minutes after they have been thrown out, and the water and tropical air bleach them and there is never the slightest odor from them. Of course, they are gradually carried out by the tide and others are thrown out to take their place.

As to the Panamanians, they seem to have little real friendship for the Americans. The two races are entirely different in temperament and customs and while at present they live side by side, meet occasionally at public functions and the theatre, they rarely become intimate. The zone has many bachelor employees, but during the years of Canal building less than a dozen have married Panamanian girls and there is no record of an American woman marrying a Panamanian. Politics play a large part in the lives of the people. They are firm believers that to the victor belong the spoils and two or three days after a new president is inaugurated there is a general cleaning out of the government offices. The putting in of new men may cripple the service for a time, but this makes little difference to the new administration. Carnivals are held each winter and politics reaches even the Queen of this affair, for a daughter of the man who is not of the party in power could not be elected even though she might be the most beautiful girl in the city.

Political bitterness shows itself in a most unpleasant fashion in the social life of the Panamanians. Their chief amusements are cock fighting and church going—the former for the men and the latter for the women, and during fiestas the churches are packed to the doors with native women and only a sprinkling of men. The lottery flourishes and the drawings take place every Sunday nearby the home of the Bishop of Panama. The tickets are sold about the streets—frequently by women who importune the tourist on every corner.

The Indians who live in the interior are not unfriendly to the white man, but they have managed to keep their race absolutely pure, for it is their proud boast "that no San Blas woman has borne a half-breed, that no San Blas man has fathered a mongrel." It is said they number about twenty thousand and that they are well armed. They permit traders to land, but never allow them to remain on shore during the night. They guard their women to such an extent that a white man rarely sees one even at a distance, for as soon as a stranger appears in the village the women take to the jungles. The Cholo Indians have little sentiment on preserving their race and have intermarried with negroes, Spanish and Chinese.

The average Panamanian woman is not attractive. She is generally lazy and prefers to spend her time in a hammock or rocking chair. She wears loose wrappers during the day and takes life in an easy fashion. The better class send their daughters to Europe or the United States to be educated, but when they return to the life of indolence. There is little social intercourse except at balls. The Spanish method of courting prevails for the girl rarely sees her lover alone until after he becomes her husband. The men spend their leisure hours at the cafes and clubs, and "calling" is a thing unknown, except when the women visit each other. Spanish customs are generally in vogue and these are anything but attractive to the American. Graft exists, and perhaps a hundred families reap the benefit. They are able to monopolize the sale of certain necessities by telling the natives that it is unpatriotic to deal with Americans.

THE ART and PLEASURE of SWIMMING

ALMOST every animal except man can manage to swim to some extent on finding itself in the water unexpectedly, and many creatures are most perfectly fitted by nature to swim with perfect ease and grace—the seal for example.

Very few, if any, persons, however, on being accidentally plunged into the water find themselves able to swim or save themselves from drowning, even if they are not hampered by much clothing.

The art of swimming exercises almost every muscle of the body, is cleansing to its surface, and may be of use as well as pleasure in saving life. Of the thousands who annually visit our sea coast resorts during the hot summers, comparatively few can swim well, and of the gentler sex, very few can swim at all.

The ocean, with its rough breakers is not a very good place to begin one's first swimming lessons, but there are certain days when it is quite calm, however, and if no other opportunity offers, these times may be taken advantage of.

As the breast stroke is the foundation of the art, it is always best to performances. This motion of the arms keeps the head and body well up in the water and propels one along at the same time.

The kick is the most important performance in swimming, as the legs are the great propellers and when correctly used send the body along at a good speed. A long-legged person can swim faster than one of shorter legs, provided the strength is equal.

The first position of the legs is shown in 1B—straight out behind with soles somewhat turned up. From this position the legs are bent and the knees drawn up as shown in Figure 2B. While drawing up the legs the knees are kept apart and heels almost touching—toes pointing outwards. At the beginning of the "drive" or kick, the feet are separated and legs shot out to their full extent, and as far apart as possible, as shown in Figure 3B. The next performance is to close the legs as vigorously as possible, finishing by having knees, ankles and great toes touching at the same moment. The feet are rapidly turned, from toes turned downward, to having them turned somewhat backward and completely meeting each other as the side of each foot touches. The secret of position, 2B), and after they are half way around, the legs are brought up into position for the drive.

Other swimming strokes can not so well be learned on land, so after the breast stroke is well understood, and both motions can be made in alternate order, it is not so difficult to get the other strokes in the water. For your first trial in water, select a quiet shelving beach where the water is up to your armpits when you have walked

Shut your mouth tightly, and make a plunge off your footing out flat into the water ahead of you. As you plunge shoot out the arms and swing them around as in the breast stroke, which you have been trying on land. As the arms are half way around draw up the legs and give the kick with as much exactness as possible. It won't matter if your mouth does get under a little—if it is shut as it should be. When you need to take a breath, let your feet drop toward the bottom and go back and try again. Your companion should follow you and assist when you are ready to quit trying for awhile. Keep up your courage, and this practice, and you will soon be swimming.

The correct position for floating is shown in Figure 1A. Have your assistant hold his hand at the middle of your back as you lay back in the water and throw your hands back over your head. Raising the head a little and as you do this turn on the right side, and with palm turned downward, make a strong down-stroke as shown by the arrow in Figure 2. When this stroke is half finished, swing the left or upper arm out of water in a graceful curve, and dipping the hand into the water in a line ahead of the body, draw it with vigor in a downward stroke, taking it from the water as it nears the side, when it is thrown over and front of the thigh, strike against the water in the under leg movement in this stroke as it meets with the other one, and they both finish in a line with the body. The head rests in the water with face turned slightly upward. This stroke may be swum with both arms under water, but it is not quite so fast as where one is taken out. In former cases the upper arm pushes out directly from the shoulder face immediately. Deep water diving is very easy, but the shallow dive into water less than eight feet is more difficult to do nicely, as the body goes in a more horizontal direction and is apt to strike on the stomach unless the performance is done properly.

An understanding of the currents of the ocean near shore will come in handy, so a profile drawing of the water, beach and sand bar, is given herewith. The bar is usually from 100 to 200 yards off from the shore, and this is where the ocean waves or "breakers" begin to mount up as they come against it. The great mass of water which comes over the bar must get back again somehow. To do this it must either go back over the bar or go around it—it does both. At certain places in these long sand bars, there are "washouts" through which the water rushes with such great force that no swimmer could possibly prevent being carried out to sea were he to get into one of them. Besides this danger there is the "undertow" to look out for at the seashore. This is always strongest where the waves are largest of course, as it represents the volume of water running back under the rushing waves. The undertow is shown by the darker lines in the profile diagram. It goes directly back toward the bar at first, then it runs either up or down the coast according to where the washout or outlet is. Some of it may go over the bar also. In diving too deeply near shore one is very apt to get into this under current, and be whirled toward the bottom, losing all control of himself for a spell—not a very agreeable experience.

To save life, or aid a drowning person, swim to the back of the person and place a hand at each armpit and swim backward. By this method you keep his head clear of the water, and he cannot grapple with you and both be drowned in consequence.

HARRY B. BRADFORD.

learn that first. When in water for real business one finds it very confusing trying to make the suggested movements and keeping comfortably afloat at the same time, so it is wise to practice these movements on land before trying them in the water.

We will start with the arm motions first. Figure 3B gives the first position. With palms flat and facing downward, both arms are shot out to full extent in front, from under the chin to position shown in 1B. Now bend the outside edges of the hands up a trifle and swing both arms around in a semi-circle, in a line with the body, and as they near right angles to the body, begin to bend elbows, and drawing hands close to the body get them into the former position under the chin again, from where they started. This is the whole operation for the hands and should be done with ease and grace, keeping the power of propulsion in this stroke is that the body is lighter than the large volume of water between the outstretched legs, and when they are closed rapidly the body shoots forward. The two strokes must then be tried together on land until they are perfected. The arm and leg strokes are made alternately. As the legs are strongly brought together, the hands shot out from under the chin (first out about twenty yards from shore. (If you are of the gentler sex a skirt will hamper your movements in the water about as much as if you strapped your legs together at the knees. It is not only useless, but dangerous, and no first-class woman swimmer ever wears one in the water.)

Take a companion with you as you make your maiden effort in the water, and have him, or her, stand beside you as you start off. You must face the shore so you will come into more shallow water. Take a big breath, and striking backward with each hand, and making the breast kick, is all there is to swimming on the back, which is very easy—even if you can't see where you are going. Floating is very useful for resting and all should learn it. It is much easier in salt than in fresh water, the former being more buoyant.

After learning the breast stroke very well, others are readily added. One of the best strokes for long distances and great speed, is the English overhand stroke, also called the side stroke. This is very much faster than the breast stroke, and not so exhausting. Figure 8 shows this stroke in the water. The way to begin it is to stretch out the right arm (if you swim on the right side) while on the breast, and the stroke repeated.

As the right arm is making its downward stroke, underneath the body, the legs are drawn up, with under knee pointing downward and upper one in front. The legs are stretched out to their full extent apart, by the upper one coming forward and the under one stretching backward. In this position they are after the under one has about finished its work.

The latest and fastest stroke is the "crawl," shown in Figure C. One arm at a time is brought out of water and thrown far ahead, when it is pulled downward toward the hip. The lower part of the legs are moved rapidly up and down a short distance as shown in drawing.

As the head is mostly under water in this stroke, one must inhale by the mouth as the face is turned upward when either arm is lifted out of water, and exhale under water. The stroke is quite tiring and not as practical for long distances as the side stroke or Trudgen stroke, but it is good for short distance sprints in long swims.

The only true way for the real swimmer to enter the water is to dive. To make the deep dive, lock the hands together by the thumbs, holding them flat with palms downward, and lean over, bending the head between the outstretched arms and give a jump on the pier or platform, throwing the feet up to get the body into an inclined position. As soon as the body is covered bend up the hands and

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

THE BOSTON STRIKE

As we stated at the beginning of the strike on the Elevated road in Boston, the company had no right whatever to discriminate against any of its employees because of belonging or not belonging to any union. General Bancroft made the boast that he would spend a million dollars rather than recognize the union. In all probability he has already spent more than a million dollars and from the present outlook he will be obliged to spend considerably more and he will have to recognize the union at the same time. He will also have to change his tactics in regard to the men he employs to take the place of the strikers. It is apparent that many of those working on the cars are men of little or no experience, dishonest to the company, insolent and abusive to the passengers. As a result of their inexperience many accidents have occurred causing serious injury to passengers and pedestrians.

The investigation made by the state board of arbitration brings out a number of facts that must undoubtedly turn public sentiment against the management of the elevated road. Gov. Foss scores the company and its methods and he very logically points out that if his demand for a public service commission had become law, the state would now have a public body invested with authority to deal with matters of this kind and to protect the public against the arbitrary action of any public service corporation.

We cannot see how the company can hold out much longer against public sentiment and the protests and criticism of the governor and other high officials. The situation justifies the governor's demand for a public service corporation with powers sufficient to arbitrate such strikes or to take such action in regard to industrial disputes as may prevent strikes that would inflict serious loss or inconvenience upon the public.

EQUAL JUSTICE FOR ALL

District Attorney Pelletier of Suffolk county comes out strongly against the alleged severity of the lower courts in dealing with cases arising from the carmen's strike. He denounces as outrageous the sentences imposed in such cases and states that he will stand between the people and such unwarranted sentences as three and six months for calling "scab" and one, two and three years for a simple assault. It is doubtless true that the lower courts in the presence of an apparent local tendency to lawlessness, may have overstepped the bounds of justice in an effort to make an example of the offenders brought before them. In the higher courts, where the atmosphere of local influences is lost, the offenses charged will be considered regardless of the exciting situations with which they were associated locally. Mr. Pelletier is right in his criticism, for although at times the local courts have to impose extreme penalties as a deterrent against crime, yet the fact remains that an offense committed during a strike is not any worse from a legal standpoint than a similar offense committed when there is no strike. These offenses in the high court will be dissociated from the influences that caused the lower courts to exercise severity. Mr. Pelletier's stand will meet general approval as in the interest of equal justice for all.

TO AMEND THE ANTI-TRUST LAW

In the recommendations of the so-called Stanley steel committee for amendments to the Sherman anti-trust law some very radical changes are suggested. One of the most important of these is, that the prosecutions would not be confined to the government alone, but instituted by individuals who might find themselves handicapped in business by the operation of a monopoly in restraint of trade. Moreover the burden of proof in regard to the charge of restraint of trade shall be shifted to the shoulders of the defendant corporation. Furthermore, the definition of the various forms of restraint will remove the uncertainty which so many business men have suffered from since the United States supreme court read into the act the word "unreasonable restraint of trade." In the past nothing but an expensive government suit could demonstrate the standing of a corporation having any of the earmarks of a trust. If the government saw fit to prosecute, the trust was brought under the operation of the act and the worst penalty was formal dissolution, usually carried out on paper without seriously affecting the operation of the trust even when resolved to its component parts. There is room for radical improvement in the act, and while the recommendations of the Stanley committee are not likely to become law, they are in the right direction and may result in some satisfactory amendments later on.

MERRIMACK WATERWAY BOARD

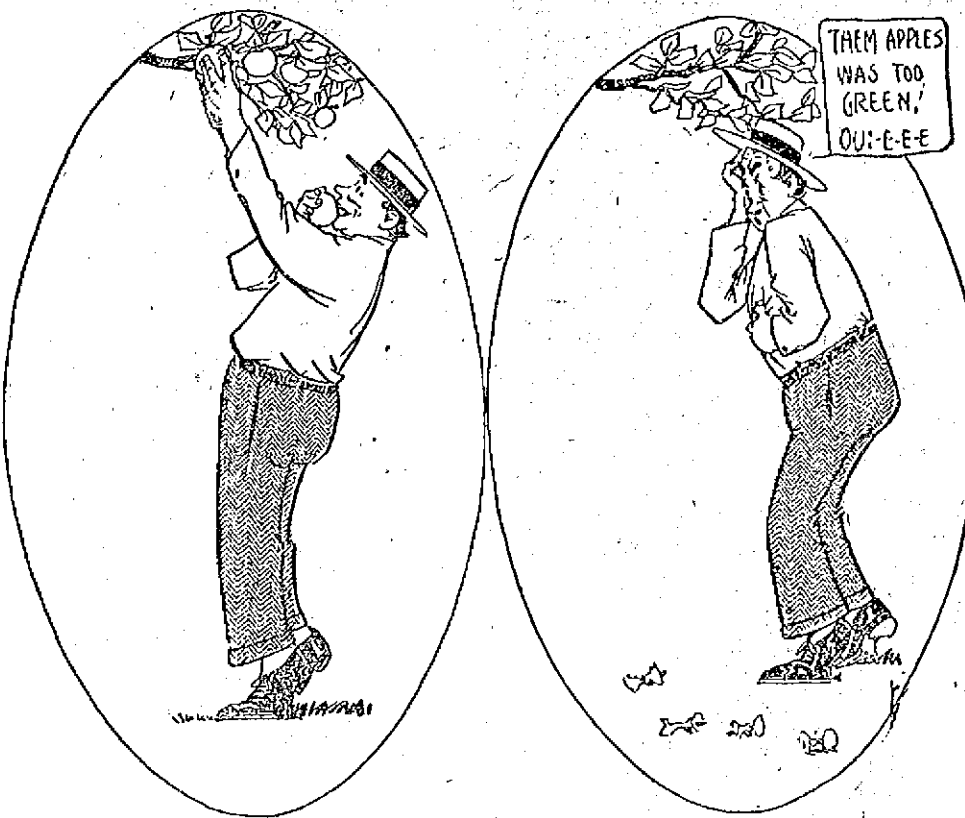

It is not likely that Governor Foss would appoint Congressman Ames to the important position of chairman of the Merrimack River Waterways board without consulting him. It has been charged in the past that the big mill corporations are not in favor of the proposition to make the Merrimack navigable and of course Mr. Ames may be regarded as closely identified with those interests. He is moreover a petitioner for the right to build a new railroad from Lowell to Boston, and whether this project would interfere with his usefulness as chairman of the waterways board is not certain. If Mr. Ames should go into the matter of making the river navigable with earnestness and a determination to make the most of the proposition, there is no doubt that he could accomplish great results. He is familiar with the action of congress in regard to such problems and he could push the government for a federal appropriation which is absolutely essential to the success of the undertaking. What is wanted first is a definite plan to be gradually developed and worked out.

The Bull-Moose convention to meet in Chicago next month will not represent anything but Roosevelt. The delegates are self-appointed and the nominee is chosen in advance. It may as well be called a convention of one.

The I. W. W. has declared off the strike at New Bedford. The I. W. W. is not in a position to settle the strike as its influence in New Bedford is not a dominating factor in the situation.

It is about time the state highway commission should get its forces to work on the down river boulevard. That road should be completed before September 1st. There is no longer any excuse for delay.

The Boston Herald has discovered that there is another side to the Lorimer case. Well, what of it? The people got more than they relished on one side.

In Georgia they tell of a prisoner who had been convicted a dozen times of stealing, who, when placed at the bar for his latest offense, displayed a singular curiosity.

"But," said the magistrate, "you were caught with your hands in this gentleman's pocket. What can your counsel say in your defense?"

"Exactly so, your honor; that is what I am curious to know."

THE TRIP TO CALIFORNIA UNDER SPECIAL CARE

"You feel like sorting out and tying together the memories of this trip and keeping them separate from all other trips?" A woman recently said this after a pleasant experience on a Burlington Route Through Tourist Car Excursion party to California. She traveled alone, but met many agreeable people on the car, which was in charge of a special conductor. This good natured official was a well-informed, courteous man who went all the way through with the party, looking after everyone's comfort and attending to all the little details of the trip. Thus a woman or child in one of these parties can travel with perfect safety and freedom from care. If you would like to know more about the Burlington's comfortable and inexpensive personally conducted excursions, please write me a postal and I'll send you maps, booklets, pictures, etc., by return mail. Nova Scotia town. During the long winter evenings your Bill used to lie out in front of the big open fireplace and just about the time he had got warm and comfortable and a little drowsy, Norwood senior would make up his mind the fire was getting low and send the son out into the snow to bring in a bagload from the wood pile.

Eventually these nocturnal pilgrimages got on young Bill's nerves, and one night, when his father sent him out after the bagload, the son continued on past the woodpile and across country to the nearest seaport, where he shipped on a whaler.

Nine years later Bill came back. It was a bitter winter night and the snow was falling. Bill knelt up to the window and looked into the old sitting room.

The fire was burning in the old fireplace and Bill's father and mother were seated in front of it. He noticed that the fire was a trifle low. So he went to the woodpile, selected a big bagload, carried it into the house and stood for a moment by the fire with the log on his shoulder.

"Father," said Bill, "I've brought in that bagload you sent me after."

The old man never hunched an inch. Instead he spat into the fire and retorted testily:

"Set it on the fire. You've been a long while getting it!"

What constitutes recreation depends,

of course, on the point of view of the one who is recreating. This anecdote shows what one small citizen thought

enjoyable.

A boy in a certain state school for dependent children wrote his father thus: "Dear papa. We children are having a good time here now. Mr. Sager broke his leg and can't work. We went on a picnic and it rained and we all got wet. Many children here are sick with the mumps. Mr. Higgins fell off the wagon and broke his rib, but he can work a little. The man that is digging the deep well whipped us boys with a buggy whip because we threw sand in his machine, and made black and blue marks on us. Ernest cut his finger badly. We are all very happy."

Just as you have decided to follow

the Japanese regime and drink several

gallons of water a day for your health,

along comes some great authority who warns you against such things. Dr.

Fabre, a famous French doctor, now

says that the people who go practically

without drink and trust to getting their liquids as they are contained in the

moisture in the regular food are the healthiest.

These no-waterites are known to the profession by the name of "oligodipses," and they are usually fine physical specimens. Still another, compromise school of dietitians argue that the natural thirst is the best guide for a person and that you should drink when you feel like it, but not force yourself.

When "doctors disagree," what is the poor victim to do?

The Miller of the Dee

There dwelt a miller, hale and bold,

He wrought the river Dee;

He wrought and sang from morn till night.

No lark more bright than he;

And this the burden of his song:

Forever used to be:

"I envy no one—no, not I—

And no one envies me!"

Thou'rt wrong, my friend," said old

King Hal.

"As wrong as wrong can be:

For could my heart be light as thine

I'd gladly change with thee.

And tell me now what makes thee sing

With voice so loud and free.

While I am sad, though I'm the King,

Beside the river Dee.

The miller smiled and doffed his cap:

"I earn my bread," quoth he,

"I love my children three.

I love no one I cannot pay.

I thank the river Dee.

That turns the mill that grinds the corn.

To feed my babes and me."

"Good friend," said Hal, and sighed

the while.

"Farewell and happy be:

But say no more, if thou'lt be true.

That no one envies thee:

Thy miller can be wroth my crown,

Thy miller my kingdom's foe!

Such men as thou are England's boast,

O miller of the Dee!"

—Charles Mackay.

There are many sad occasions when grief will have its way.

There are moments when the sun

above is hidden from the day.

But in face of tears, in spite of cares,

there's room here all the while

For the one who has the courage and

the willingness to smile.

A smile is like a little stone that's dropped into a lake.

That ripples start and happier and

wider circles make.

And its influence is best marked when

it's found, after a while,

That it's taught some overburdened heart the happy way to smile.

It's so easy to be spiteful, it's so blind to be blind.

But you'll find it just as easy and as simple to be kind.

An unkind word will take effect, and

last for quite a while.

But it can't compare to the effect resulting from a smile.

The little look of sympathy, the little word of cheer.

Are precious gifts that we can never have too much of here.

So hide away your little cares and troubles for awhile.

And brighten this old world of ours

by showing it a smile.

—Sivori Levey.

Health and Beauty Helps

BY MRS. MAE MARTIN

C. L.: The hot sun and wind will not injure your skin, even though it is delicate. If you apply a spumax lotion each day. This lotion is made by adding 2 teaspoons glycerine to ½ pint of water (or less water), then 1 ounce spumax. Powder and rouge are unnecessary when the spumax lotion is used, and if you apply the lotion every day you will find that freckles, tan and wrinkles disappear. The spumax lotion is invaluable when on which eyes it will give a youthful charm and sparkle, and its occasional use frequently overcomes the need for wearing glasses.

Myra: Each night apply pyroxin to lash roots with thumb and forefinger and they will come in long and silky. Your eyebrows will grow thick and heavy by rubbing on pyroxin with finger tips. Be careful and don't get any where hair is not wanted.

Dorothy D.: No harm results when delatone is used to banish hairy growths. Just make a paste with some delatone and water spread over hairs and in 2 or 3 minutes remove, wash the skin, and every trace of hairy growth has vanished. Rarely is it necessary to use more than one application of delatone.

B. A.: Of course you cannot make your hair look bright and pretty because soap was never intended for shampooing, as it causes the hair to grow streaky and brittle. Dissolve a teaspoonful castile in a cup hot water and you will have enough mixture for a delightful soothing and invigorating shampoo. The lather created by castile soap is so rich and creamy and after rinsing well, the hair and scalp are clean and sweet, while the hair dries quickly, with an even rich color and beautiful gloss. Nothing compares with castile for keeping the hair silky, brilliant and fluffy in hot weather.

Mrs. R.: Rolls indicate a poison-laden blood, and you can hope for little relief until the poisons are eliminated from the system. In ½ pint alcohol pour 1 ounce karothen, add 1 ½ cups sugar and hot water to make a quart. Take a tablespoonful before each meal and you will soon be rid of your rolls. This tonic cleans up the skin and gives you health and energy, and should be kept handy in the house, as its use often prevents serious sickness.

I. X. L.: You can obtain quick relief from burning, stinging eyes by frequently dropping 2 or 3 drops of plain crystals eye-tonic in each eye. This harmless tonic is made by dissolving 1 ounce crystals in a pint cold water. For soreness or for removing foreign particles, as well as for granulated lids, it is unequalled. To dull, itchy eyes it will give a youthful charm and sparkle, and its occasional use frequently overcomes the need for wearing glasses.

Ester H.: You cannot expect to have a clear, fair skin so long as you continue using greasy creams and smooth the pores with powder. Make up and use this plain almond cream jelly, followed by an application of the spumax lotion (see answer to C. L.): Put 2 teaspoonful glycerine into ½ pint cold water, then add 1 ounce almond oil. Let stand for several hours, then apply to skin and massage in. The skin of the face and neck will be rid of the skin of the face and neck will be rid of blotches, fine lines, freckles and other complexion upsets. It also discourages hairy growths.

Grace W.: The discomfort you suffer from overfatness can be easily remedied if you get 4 ounces parnosin and dissolve in ½ pint hot water, then take a tablespoonful 3 times each day. This harmless treatment gently dissolves fatty tissues without incontinence and does not call for dieting or violent exercise. You can reduce your weight to where you want it and your flesh will be firm and the skin free from wrinkles. It produces no results from using the parnosin treatment, and there need be no fear of the fat returning once the treatment is discontinued.

X. L.: An excellent hair and scalp tonic for summer months is made by adding 1 ounce quinzol to ½ pint alcohol, then ½ pint water. This almost instantly soothes the burning and stops irritation. Its continued use puts the scalp in a healthy condition and encourages a beautiful growth of silky, brilliant hair. It is a good idea to shampoo occasionally with castile (see answer to B. A.), then use the quinzol tonic once or twice each week.

EDUCATION NOTES

The sexes are about equally represented in Norway's ten normal schools. In American schools of the same class women outnumber the men more than 3 to 1.

Italy is increasing her annual expenditure for education by over 30 percent, according to the budget reported for 1912-13. The sum is 140,105,455 lire (about $28,000,000).

Swedish gymnastics still retain their international favor. In Sweden they are provided for a still further development of the art in Argentina.

School authorities of Leipzig, Germany, are fighting the smoking habit among school children. It is reported that in one school 50 percent of the pupils smoked, in another 74 percent, and in still another 54 percent.

Crowded conditions in public schools are not confined to American cities. In Upper Austria 110 teachers in all-day schools have 50 to 100 pupils; 51 teachers have 30 to 100 pupils; and nineteen teachers have more than 100 pupils under their charge, according to information received at the United States Bureau of Education.

The idea of sending teachers to other countries for observation and study continues to spread. Sweden has recently dispatched to various other countries at public expense a elementary teachers. It will women teachers of infant schools, 4 normal school-teachers, and 9 teachers in high schools.

Italian school children trained in the "Children's Houses" under the new Montessori method are said to have become "frenzied with joy" at finding they could write. The children learn to write in incredibly short time under the new method, two or three months often being sufficient for the smallest of the tots.

Among young peoples' societies in France one of the most interesting is La Jeunesse Republicaine, an association devoted to the support and honor of the Republic. At a recent public festival a youthful representative of the association offered in the name of his comrades a solemn pledge, closing with the words: "We proclaim our devotion without reserve to the Republic of France... We will aid by every effort in the enfranchisement of the people to whom we belong, by means of science, truth, and justice."

The English like our agricultural schools. After examining Cornell, Wisconsin, and other well-known institutions in the United States a deputation reported its impressions in the following terms: "The unrivaled position of Wisconsin in the production of cheese and butter is the direct result of scientific teaching happily wedded to prudent legislation. If any one still doubts these things, and deems it Frightful Polar Winds at the far north and play havoc with the skin, causing red, rough or sore chapped hands. Use one ounce of Buckle's Africa Salve to heal them. It makes the skin soft and smooth. worth while to go on repeating the skeptical question, "Can agriculture be taught?" our advice is that he should go to Canada and the United States and see the thing done, and done upon a great scale.

The intimate connection between hungry bodies and hungry minds is receiving practical attention in European cities. In Berlin 7,000 pupils in one year had school lunches furnished them; in Hamburg 3,000; while in Leipzig the number thus aided amounted to 2,200, according to information received at the United States Bureau of Education. In Munich and Nuremberg both breakfast and lunch are furnished to needy pupils. In Ludwigs-hafen bread and milk are given each morning to the children who have reached school without having been fed. In Belgium soup and bread are given to the unemployed pupils. In Lisle alone in 1910, 301,237 rations were supplied. In Italy it is considered part of the duty of the authorities to be on the lookout for pupils who seem not to be properly nourished, and to provide them with food. In Norway substantial lunches are furnished by the city authorities in a central kitchen being used for this purpose.

REP. NORRIS

MAKES ATTACK ON NOMINATION OF PRESIDENT TAFT

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Rep. Norris of Nebraska, progressive republican, resumed his speech in the house today, attacking the nomination of President Taft by the Chicago convention. He renewed his charge of yesterday that delegations from certain southern states were virtually all office holders sent to the convention to insure the nomination of the president. Taking up specifically the Texas delegation, he read a letter purporting to have been sent to republicans in that state before the convention by H. F. McG.

THE WEAVERS' UNION IN FAVOR OF PEACE

No Change is Reported in the Situation in New Bedford Today

NEW BEDFORD, July 25.—As far as the strike of the Industrial Workers of the World being called off is concerned there has been no change in the situation here. There was not the usual police activity at the mill gates this morning, as when the department learned late last night that the I. W. W. strike had been called off, it was felt that there would be no further disturbances for a few days at least. When the I. W. W. members went to seek their jobs this morning in the mills there was work for very few of the striking operatives.

It is Eagles field day in this city today and the activities of this organization with a big parade and field sports has monopolized the attention of the striking operatives and taken their minds off the trouble for a few hours.

Secretary Duffy of the weavers' union reports that his union is willing to meet the manufacturers half way in the matter of a compromise to settle the strike and while his suggestion was to have a committee in each weaver room appointed to look at all cuts of cloth that have been spoiled and called second quality and to have the weavers agree to the committee's decision being final but to have it understood that the committee will have only the cuts that are willfully spoiled count against the weaver. The future policy of the union will be decided when it is actually announced that a conference has been arranged.

I. W. W. MEMBERS

VOTED TO CALL OFF NEW BEDFORD STRIKE

NEW BEDFORD, July 25.—Following the sectional meetings of the I. W. W. held last night, when ballots were cast on the question, "Shall the strike be declared off?" it was announced that the vote was in favor of ending the strike, the vote as given by Organizer Panoplos of the central committee being 306 in favor and 483 against.

National Secretary William Yates who was present, said that while he declared the strike lost, he didn't consider it a defeat for the I. W. W., but that it was an "honorable retreat."

He declared that the members of the organization were being victimized and he believed it was a put up job between the manufacturers and A. F. of L. to save the members in this city before it was too late.

The only way the organizers could see was to advise calling off the strike. The strike committee was discharged and circulars will be sent out by the general committee in four languages to all members giving the reasons why the strike in this city was lost.

Thinking that the action of the I. W. W. might have been hastily taken and that many of the members after a sober thought might want to change their minds, the central committee of organization yesterday afternoon called sessions of sections to hold meetings to take a ballot in writing as to whether they wanted to continue the strike or not.

Ballots were prepared in the different languages spoken by the strikers, English, French, Portuguese and Polish.

Organizer Grover H. Perry said yesterday that, as it is now, within two weeks and until the strike is settled and the operatives receive pay again, there will be continual want and suffering.

"Children will be crying for bread," he said, "until at least even the stoutest men will be forced to return to work to provide for the weaker members of their family. That situation could have been averted and the strike won had the plan adopted by our organization been carried out by the other unions."

Meeting yesterday, the members of the sections were urged by their organizers to return to work and wait until a more favorable time, and while many of the strikers said they were willing to starve, it was agreed to take a ballot on the question.

Meetings of the branches were started late yesterday afternoon, and were continued late into the night, it having been agreed that the ballots would be counted and the result made known today.

This action was not adopted until after a long discussion in the executive session of the central committee. The leaders all admitted that they saw absolutely no hope under the present conditions of winning the strike.

A meeting had been held with representatives of the Ministerial Union committee, and two labor men from each of the unions affiliated with the Textile council and Frank M. Rump, representing the state board of conciliation and arbitration, presided at this meeting. The situation was talked over and it was asked that the state board come into the controversy and arrange a conference between the weavers and manufacturers.

It has been a matter of public knowledge, since the conference of the Ministers' union and the weavers' executive committee last Friday, that the weavers were willing to confer, and it developed yesterday that they were willing to go even further than that.

GIRL WAS MURDERED ASSAILANT UNKNOWN

Her Throat Cut From Ear to Ear
—The Body Was Found in a Cornfield

CARMELO, Me., July 25.—The body of a 14-year-old girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thelma Mitchell, was found today in a corn field a short distance from the road. The body was partly nude, both hands were tied behind the back and the throat was cut from ear to ear. There was evidence that she had been brutally assaulted and afterward murdered.

The murdered girl's family live at North Cornet, near the Lamoine line and two and a half miles from the store of George Mason. Last evening she went to Mason's store, made some purchases and at 7:30 o'clock started for home.

It was believed today that the murderer was in or near the store when she left and that he followed her up the road a quarter of a mile to the scene of the crime. What happened afterward is only a conjecture but there was ample evidence of a desperate struggle, the corn having been trampled down all around. The girl had $14 when she left the store. This was not taken but was found a short distance from the body near where the groceries had been dropped.

The Mitchell family consists of the father and mother and ten children, four of whom are away from home and six live on the farm. No arrest had been made early this afternoon.

Sheriff White, Coroner White and County Attorney Thompson arrived from Bangor this afternoon and began a thorough investigation of the case.

THE POLICE FAILED TO GET THE GANG

That Figured in Rosenthal Murder

JACK ROSE MAY TELL THE STORY

That Will Lead to More
Arrests

NEW YORK, July 25.—Efforts to discover the identity of the men who plotted the death of Herman Rosenthal have been balked today at a conference of the police to round up the gang that murdered Rosenthal in front of the hotel Metropole. Nine days have now elapsed since the gambler was slain and with the exception of Harry Vallon who surrendered himself and one of the passengers in the gray automobile have been brought to headquarters by the police, though several of the supposed assassins have been seen in the city during the past week.

District Attorney Whitman is giving his undivided attention to unraveling the tangled threads of evidence and with him is working Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty Whitman and Dougherty believe that "Bald Jack" Rose was the managing mind behind the murder plot and from one of the prisoners now held in connection with the case they hope to obtain facts that will convince Rose he had better turn state's evidence. Federal officers believe that the police system will protect him and balks at turning him over, though the public prosecutor has let it become known that Rose will be treated with leniency if he discloses the names of the real conspirators.

The grand jury planned to continue today its investigation into the gambling charges made by Rosenthal and will probably recall Otto Avers, the chauffeur who drove Lieut. Becker around the town on the night of the murder. It has been learned that Avers, after his recent testimony before the grand jury, hurried to Becker and told him all that he had learned and to Police Inspectors Hayes and Lacey and Captain Daley are under subpoena to appear before the grand jury today. Becker has not so far accepted the invitation of the district attorney to appear as a witness before the grand jury. Becker will not be subpoenaed but he can appear if he desires by waiving immunity.

District Attorney Whitman made what he believes to be material increase of evidence as far as "Bridgie" Webber's connection with the affair is concerned, when John J. Reiser, otherwise known as "John the Barber," made an affidavit previous to the barber's arraignment in court on a perjury charge.

The affidavit stated that Reiser and his wife were near the hotel Metropole on the night of the killing and that "somebody told me that Herman Rosenthal had been shot. I went over to where his body was lying. I observed 'Bridgie' Webber running away from the scene of the crime and asked a man known as 'Kid Lewis,' what was 'Bridgie' Webber running away for? 'I did not catch Lewis' reply."

It was announced at noon that William Shapiro, chauffeur of the "murder car," would appear at the district attorney's office this afternoon and turn state's evidence and tell all he knows. His statement is expected to do much toward fixing the responsibility for Rosenthal's murder.

Lieut. Becker, who was invited by the grand jury to appear and give testimony, made his appearance in the criminal court building this afternoon and announced that he was ready to give what testimony he could to the grand jury. He went to the district attorney's office and there waited with Lieuts. Costigan and Kelly, who also had responded to invitations to be escorted by District Attorney Whitman into the grand jury room.

PLENTY OF MONEY
CHAUFFEURS, NEWSBOYS AND OTHERS WELL SUPPLIED

NEW YORK, July 25.—Ten dollar banknotes are declared never to have been so plentiful among certain habitués of the section near Broadway and 42nd street as within the past few days, since investigators, public and private, have been trying to round up witnesses of the killing of Herman Rosenthal, the gambler. The plethora of cash seems to have induced a state of suspended memory on the part of chauffeurs, newsboys, hangers-on of various resorts and others who might be supposed to have knowledge of the incidents of the crime or events in connection with it that preceded or followed.

NO THIRD TICKET IN MINNESOTA

Decision Reached at Conference Today

LIEUT. GOV. GORDON
MAKES STATEMENT

About the Situation in His State

OSTER BAY, N. Y., July 25.—The national progressive party will not put a ticket in the field in Minnesota. This decision was reached today at a conference between Col. Roosevelt and Lieut. Gov. Gordon of Minnesota and C. J. Knapp, a member of the Minnesota legislature. On his return from Sagamore Hill, Mr. Gordon said:

"I am able to state, now that the conference is over, that we will not have a separate ticket. The progressives are in control of the republican party. Under the law it is necessary to run the names of Taft and Sherman with the regular republican candidates for presidential electors. To meet this condition the candidates already chosen, almost all of whom are Roosevelt men, will resign and the same men will be nominated by petition as progressive republicans."

Under this plan, it was explained, there will be two sets of republican candidates for electors on the ballot, one of them running under the names of Taft and Sherman, the other to be designated as progressive republicans under the name of Roosevelt and his running mate. Mr. Gordon said that the chairman of the republican state central committee, E. Smith, who would fill the vacancies caused by the resignation of the Roosevelt candidates for electors was a Taft man and would fill up the ticket with supporters of the president.

Mr. Gordon said that Col. Roosevelt would probably go to St. Paul to speak on Sept. 6 at the Minnesota state fair.

CLANS LINING UP IN MOUNTAIN DISTRICT

Trouble is Expected in Virginia

POLITICAL FEUD THE CAUSE

Mountaineers Charged With Vote Selling

JONESVILLE, Va., July 25.—The killing of Dr. James Walden, a prominent democrat, last night by Perry Wallin, a republican leader, has fanned a smoldering political feud in a Blackwater district to a threatened outbreak. All through the mountain district the clans are lining up.

The coming trial of 200 mountaineers charged with vote-selling is causing the local authorities to make preparations for the protection of the court and jury.

Judge Skeen today got a message from the mountaineers reading: "There are 35 in our jail. Before we will submit to going to jail we will die and go to hell."

A LOCAL RESIDENT HAD EXCITING TIME

He Was Arrested by the Turkish Soldiers

ORDERED TO LEAVE
COUNTRY

He Appealed to American Consul

Apostolos Fasouloupoulos, a well known Greek resident of this city, who last year left Lowell to visit his brother, who is in Turkey and recently returned to Lowell, had an exciting experience while in Turkey according to stories told by his friends in this city.

Mr. Fasouloupoulos admits that he had an exciting time while abroad and inasmuch as he is a citizen of the United States, it is understood that there has been an exchange of many official letters between the United States and Turkish governments. Inasmuch as the Lowell man has turned the matter over to a local lawyer he refused to discuss the matter at any length at this time.

Fasouloupoulos came to this country a number of years ago and secured employment in the Merrimack Clothing store in Merrimack street. He was a very industrious man and soon became a very valuable employee.

During the early part of last fall he decided to take a trip to his fatherland and also to visit his brother who is in Turkey. When he arrived in Turkey it is alleged that he was arrested by Turkish soldiers on the charge of being an American spy. According to the story told by his countrymen he was cast into a dismal jail where he was confined for four days. It is said that he made several appeals to the American consulate at Salonica, Turkey, but received no assistance. At the end of the fourth day he was taken out of the prison and ordered to leave the country.

After spending a short time in Greece and visiting former friends he took passage to this country and recently arrived in Lowell.

M. T. I. BACHELOR GIRLS FORM CLUB

Officers Elected and Plans Adopted

A club, composed of the girls who during the winter months gave several concerts for the benefit of the Mather Temperance Institute, under the name of the M. T. I. Bachelor Girls has been organized by James Roark, the hustling treasurer of the Matthews, the new organization to be affiliated with the society. The officers to govern the destinies of the new club which for the present will be known as the M. T. I. Girls are as follows:

President, Miss Rose McDonough; Secretary, Alice Mealey and treasurer, Mary Gallagher. At the present time there are thirty members, but twenty more members will be taken in at the next meeting which will be held on Tuesday evening.

There will be a mammoth production by the members of both branches in September and rehearsals will be started as soon as the new club has initiated the remaining members. The club was formed for sociability and to assist the institute in the presentation of concerts, dances and other entertainments.

The committee recently appointed to arrange for the outing for the girls in recognition of their work for the institute in the past reports great progress. The Glendale camp, on the banks of the Concord river has been selected as the place for the affair and the date will soon be announced.

BOOTT CAMPERS TO HOLD DANCING PARTY TO- MORROW NIGHT

The second annual dancing party of the Boott Campers will be held at Willow Dale dance hall tomorrow evening. During the summer months the girls of the Boott will enjoy a beautiful camp on Bowens avenue, Willow Dale, where the employees after their week's work go for Saturday and Sunday to enjoy the breezes of Lake Massawog, and since going to the Dale, two years ago, they have conducted a dancing party. The receipts from the dance go into the camp treasury and the expenses are taken from the Boott Campers. The girls also contribute to the support of the cottage and many times the latter go to the cottage for a short stay. All employees of the fair sex are entertained at the Dale, and every Sunday there is a large number on hand. An excellent program has been arranged for tomorrow night.

MATRIMONIAL

A very pretty wedding took place at St. Peter's rectory, yesterday afternoon when Miss Mary Lane and Mr. Harry Arnold were united in marriage by Rev. Daniel Hoffmann. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Hannah Lane, as bridesmaid and Mr. F. L. Stoddard was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Arnold were the recipients of many beautiful gifts. They left Lowell on the 7:30 train for the White mountains, where they will spend an extended honeymoon.

THE ABBOTT CASE TO BE ARGUED

Members of Municipal Council to Appear Before Supreme Judicial Court

Constable Ezra E. Mansur was a visitor at city hall today and his mission was to hand summonses to the five commissioners and the city hall reporters to appear before the supreme judicial court in Boston tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock to give evidence on an action for a writ of mandamus secured by attorneys for C. Arthur Abbott, assessor, plaintiff, and Stephen Flynn, city clerk, et al., defendant.

Assessors Busy
The assessors are today very busy compiling the annual valuations for the year.

Chairs Repaired
The lands and buildings department today returned to city hall a number of chairs that prior to the inception of the present government were thrown in the attic of the hall and the chairs came back all fixed up and painted. In years gone by when a chair was broken in any way it was consigned to the attic, but when Commissioner Cummings took charge of the department and went looking things over he "discovered" enough chairs to supply the needs of all the offices in the place and also a few extras. He conferred with the fixers, with the result that the old seats were taken and touched up and repaired to look like new. The department team arrived at the hall this morning with a large load of the repaired furniture, and now City Messenger Monahan says that they have an adequate number to accommodate even the large crowds on immigration day.

Plans Considered
Mayor James E. O'Donnell, Commissioner Cummings, Inspector Francis Connor and Architect Henry L. Roark held a conference at the mayor's office and considered proposed plans and changes for the board of health stables on Broadway and Fletcher street.

$25,000 Addition
The inspector of lands and buildings today issued a permit to the Wamsott Power company of Lawrence street for the erection of an addition to the present plant of the company. Owing to the increased business of the company more room is needed and hence the request for the permit for enlargement.

There will be two additions to the plant, one to be attached to the side while the other will be attached to the front of the building. The side addition will be one-story high while the other will be four. The one-story building will be 43x115 feet, while the four-story structure will be 43x131.

The foundations will be of concrete, while the walls will be of granite and brick. Work will be started at once and it is estimated that the building will cost $25,000.

Other Permits
A Estelle Rundlett, of 5 Robbins street, was granted a permit to erect a bungalow at 19 Tremont street, corner of Putnam avenue. The building will be of cement and wood and will include four rooms, pantry and bath on first floor, one room above and basement and will be 27x33x23.

A permit was received by P. J. Regan to make alterations to the building at 475 Market street, the place being occupied by Vassilios Grivas. The work will consist of a new front with plate glass windows and the estimated cost is given as $150.

Chauffeurs' Examination
Examiner Olson of the highway commission of Boston will be at city hall tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock to examine applicants for chauffeurs' licenses.

Bids Called For
Bids have been asked for the two cottages on the bogsway, the property of the water department, which were built many years ago and were occupied by employees of the department. At the present time, the engineer of one of the stations is living in one, but it is expected that they will be purchased and removed.

Resurfacing Streets
Commissioner Brown of the street department has a number of men at work resurfacing Nesmith, Andover, Wyman, Talbot, Mansur streets and Belmont avenue. The work is progressing quite rapidly and the commissioner expects that all will be finished in a short time.

Municipal Council
The next meeting of the municipal council will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. On Wednesday afternoon at 2 the members will meet and discuss the $75,000 loan for the water works and also the proposition for $22,000 for the comfort station in Merrimack square.

A HOT TIME AN INVESTIGATION

EXPECTED AT MEETING OF RE-PUBLICAN CITY COMMITTEE

It was quietly whispered in the street this afternoon that there would be something doing tonight at Republican headquarters when the republican city committee will hold a meeting.

It is understood that an effort has been made to have a majority of the committee members present and that an effort will be made to have a majority endorse the action taken at the last meeting when less than half the committee members were present.

As the Chicago convention, voted to condemn it on the grounds that Mr. Roosevelt was strong armed, or words to that effect. Mr. Chapman was a delegate to the convention and was pledged to Roosevelt. He allowed that the convention was not on the level and he submitted his conviction that those of his brother members of the republican city committee who heard his story of the convention that it was not on the level.

Now, they do tell, that quite a few of the committee are strong for Mr. Taft and they do not intend to state the level and he submitted his conviction that those of his brother members of the republican city committee who heard his story of the convention that it was not on the level.

PLAYED QUITS TANNERY TEAM WON INTEREST- ING MATCH LAST NIGHT

An interesting match game of quots was played on a field in Lawrence street last evening, between a team from the Tannery, captained by John O'Hare and one from the North Common, under the captaincy of J. F. Cunniff. The contest was very interesting and brought out a large crowd of spectators. There were three games played, each of twenty-five points. The Tannery team took the first game by a close margin, but the boys from the Acre came back strong in the second and won out easily. In the third round there was considerable excitement, but the Tannery came from behind and won out, thereby winning the match. Next week the teams will clash again, and the members are trying to form a league, which will play off a series of games on Labor Day.

THE WOOL BILL

LEADERS IN SENATE EXPECT A GREAT FIGHT

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Senate leaders today began lining up forces for the three day tariff fight that was expected to begin with the consideration of the wool bill. With both republican and democratic forces both decided upon a plan, the situation appeared unusually complicated.

The democratic wool bill was to be taken up for amendment when the senate met. Senator Smoot's bill might be brought in, many senators thought. The sugar bill and the excise tax bill follow the wool bill. The prospect of agreement between the senate and house on the tariff measure seemed to be lessened by the avowed purpose of Senator Grann to present an amendment for the repeal of Canadian reciprocity. The senate has passed such an amendment on the metal bill but the house refused to accept it. Some indication of the line of action was expected to be indicated by the lining up of the forces after today's session.

These drills, which are held weekly under the direction of Deputies Sullivan and Saunders, have resulted in a big improvement in the activity of the firemen.

The members of the Wolf Tons Guards will hold their regular drill and meeting at their armory in Market street tomorrow night. Arrangements will be made for the annual field day on Labor day and other matters of importance will be considered.

MAIL FLIRTATIONS TO BE STOPPED

Postmaster General Has Issued Orders

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Approving individual action taken by postmasters

of many large cities, Postmaster General Hitchcock has issued a general order which has the avowed purpose of checking the use of general delivery windows for carrying on flirtations and clandestine correspondence.

Any persons who wish mail at general delivery windows instead of home addresses may hereafter be required to give their reasons in writing.

Many complaints have been received by the postoffice department that service at general delivery windows was being improperly used by minors, particularly young girls, and by residents ordinarily served by mail carriers.

Under the postal regulations, postmasters may require all persons to furnish in writing their names and addresses and statements of their reasons for preferring to receive their mail at the general delivery. In addition, minors may be required to furnish the names of their parents, in order that the latter may be notified and have an opportunity to control the delivery of mail to their children.

Postmasters at offices not having city carrier service may notify the parents of minors in all instances where it appears to them that the minors are using the general delivery to obtain mail under objectionable conditions.

Postmaster General Hitchcock directs all postmasters to enforce the regulations strictly and impartially.

AUNT SALLY'S ADVICE TO BEAUTY SEEKERS

K. C. F. asks: "Will you tell me how to get my hands white and soft? They have become rough and are so dark in contrast to my arms." The method mentioned in reply to Elsie will bring the desired results; wear gloves to prevent soiling the bed linen.

D. N. A. writes: "How can I reduce a double chin? Also how get rid of crow's feet?" Use a wash lotion prepared by dissolving 1 oz. powdered exfolite in 3 pint witch hazel. This tightens the skin, tending to disperse wrinkles as well as a healthy color to the chin or elsewhere.

Elsie says: "My freckles are worse than ever this year, made doubly conspicuous by a pallid complexion. Is there any cure?" Ask your druggist for an ounce of mercerized wax, apply nightly like cold cream, removing in the morning with warm water. As the wax gradually absorbs the lifeless cuticle, not only will the freckles vanish, but the new and younger skin which appears will have a healthy color. Probably you will need to continue treatment a week or more.—Woman's Realm.

STILL AT WORK IN SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE

SEA GIRT, N. J., July 25.—Gov. Wilson today entered upon the third day of his labor on his speech of acceptance. The task has proved a more formidable one than he first contemplated and indications are that he will not return to the cottage here until Saturday afternoon. His secretaries have seen him only once since his departure from Sea Girt.

Mrs. Wilson and Miss Margaret have left the summer home to join him and the other members of his household. Misses Jessie and Eleanor Wilson, are spending a few days at the home of friends at Lyme, Conn. Meantime the governor's mail is accumulating at the

CHILDREN INJURED

THEY FELL THROUGH AIR SHAFT TO BASEMENT

BOSTON, July 25.—Three children, while playing on the roof of a dwelling at 102 Chelsea street, East Boston, yesterday, fell through an air shaft to the basement 35 feet below, crashing through a thick glass covering over the opening, yet all three are expected to recover. The unfortunate youngsters are Rosa Farrarra, 9 years old; Mary Del-cora 5, and John Delcora 4. The last two are children of Mrs. Pino Delcora of 104 Chelsea street and the Ferrarra girl is the daughter of Mrs. Amella Ferrarra of 410 Commercial street.

The roof where the children were playing is surrounded by a fence, which seemed to make it safe and it has been regarded by children of the vicinity as a roof garden. The 1/4-inch glass covering of the shaft was already partly broken, yet the three children are said to have been standing on it at the moment they broke through. The shaft through which they fell is about four feet square and that they were not killed is believed to be due to their fall having been broken by contract with the side walls. The children were rescued by three men who were passing. The men were Louis Barborex of 5 London court, East Boston; Antonio Minovi and Mariana Nasrati, both of 155 Salem street, North End. At the local hospital in East Boston, where the injured children were taken, Dr. Henderson and Dr. Murphy said that all had received bad multiple injuries, but not of a fatal character.

HOUSE THAT IS HAUNTED SURROUNDED BY CROWDS

None Dares to Enter the Place
—Ghosts Have House to
Themselves

BOSTON, July 25.—"Ghosts" held undisputed sway again last night in South Hanover's "haunted house." With the coming of darkness, the parish house of the Church of the Sacred Heart, where uncanny happenings have caused such mystery and terror that the pastor, Fr. Charles F. Donohue, and his household have been forced to give up the house at night, was once more deserted by human beings.

Fr. Donohue spent the night at the home of a neighbor, Arthur Graham. His housekeeper, Miss Margaret O'Connell, stayed at the residence of another neighbor.

Outside the locked and deserted house, though, the early evening found gathered a crowd of people who had heard of the eerie noises and the weird work of invisible hands which over-turned furniture, shattered household articles and ripped linen into shreds. Anxiously the crowd watched the house, as if in fearful hope that some of the terrifying demonstrations might appear to their view.

Not until late at night did those in the curious crowd leave. When they began to disperse, they did so swiftly. No one seemed to want to be left alone in the dark outside the modest little house on which the moon shone peacefully.

Anxiously the crowd watched the house, as if in fearful hope that some of the terrifying demonstrations might appear to their view.

Not until late at night did those in the curious crowd leave. When they began to disperse, they did so swiftly. No one seemed to want to be left alone in the dark outside the modest little house on which the moon shone peacefully.

The story of the house has gone far and wide, and has made it an object of curiosity to the people of the surrounding towns. In every part of Plymouth county there is unusual interest in the strange developments it has seen. How widespread is the interest was shown yesterday when people came to South Hanover from neighboring towns for the express purpose of gazing on the dwelling. Hundreds of visitors were drawn to the town.

Fr. Donohue was busy about his parish duties yesterday, and devoted much of his time to completing arrangements for the garden party of the parishioners next Saturday afternoon and evening. It will be held on the grounds around the house of the strange happenings, although there is a possibility that if other grounds can be secured the party will be held elsewhere.

All through the town there are wild stories running, and growing in magnitude with each recital of the uncanny occurrences. Many of them are imaginary, but everybody agrees that the story narrated by Fr. Donohue himself is weird enough to make the house one of mystery.

It was learned that after the guard of 12 men left the house on Sunday, following the sight of the brass casket projected down the stairs, more furniture was broken. On Monday it was found that Fr. Donohue's bed had been overturned and broken, that the sheets had been torn and the strips tied into knots. It was learned also that a comparatively common occurrence at the house of late was for flowers which had been left in a vase to be taken out and strewn over the room, while the water in the vase was sprinkled over the floor.

The committee in charge was as follows: Mrs. Howard L. White, chairman, general committee; Mrs. Howard and Mrs. White, chairman, Mrs. C. H. Ingalls, Mrs. E. T. Edwards, Mrs. W. S. Holt, Mrs. Edwin Smith, Mrs. Frank Pascal and Mrs. Mary E. Spencer. Salad committee—Mrs. George H. Walker, chairman, Mrs. A. Gordon Foster, Mrs. Wm. E. Robinson, Mrs. Walter Jessup and Mrs. Benjamin Clements.

HAS DECIDED TO JOIN PROGRESSIVE PARTY

INDIANAPOLIS, July 25.—Former Senator Albert Beveridge formally renounced allegiance to the republican party in a letter received by W. H. Dye, a leader of the progressive party in Indiana.

Mr. Beveridge, who is spending the summer at Seal Harbor, Me., says the letter is intended as an answer to queries of many Indiana friends, who sought to know his position concerning the progressive party. He says in his letter that in the new party does no more for Indiana than to out the old line political bosses it will have performed a great blessing to the state.

Special Officer McDonald of the Hanover street station made the arrest.

GENERAL ELECTRIC

YIELDED ALL ITS GAINS IN MARKET TODAY

Final Hour of the Buying Movement Assumed More Vigorous Proportions—Other Features of the Trading Today

NEW YORK, July 25.—A three point rise in General Electric and one in St. Paul, the latter presumably in anticipation of the declaration of the regular dividend, were the sole features of interest at the opening of today's market.

There were further irregular followings in the first hour, Westinghouse following the rise of General Electric, with gains and losses in other specialties, while the leaders moved upward.

Stocks today continued their erratic movement of the week, the leaders displaying further hesitancy, while the specialties recorded gains and losses.

The recent rise in General Electric, which gained three additional points in today's early dealings, was explained by advices from Boston announcing a large stock dividend.

Prices showed general improvement in the late afternoon under the lead of the Hill stocks, which were purchased on favorable crop news. U. P. and other standard railroad shares profited to a more limited extent with some buying of steel.

The final hour of the buying movement assumed more vigorous proportions. General Electric yielded all its gain with some recessions elsewhere.

THREE MEN KILLED IN A TRAIN WRECK

Express Train Crashed Into a Freight—Polo Ponies Injured and Autos Destroyed

STONINGTON, Conn., July 25.—Three men were killed and four injured in the wrecking of a freight train by the east-bound Adams express train at Stonington Junction yards of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad this morning. The freight, which was also towing another locomotive, was backing into the yards when the express came along. There was not sufficient clear room and the express engine struck the other, but, toppling over, completely wrecked. Two cars of the express were also wrecked but the remainder of the train, which was made up of steel cars with steel wheels, struck the freight, tearing out one car of the freight and forcing Fred Wilber, the towerman, to jump to safety.

The wreckage took fire but the flames were put out by the Stonington fire department. In one of the wrecked cars were a number of polo ponies, which were killed. Two of these were so badly injured that they had to be killed. In the other wrecked car of the express were three or four automobiles and these were run over.

Towerman Wilber thinks the wreck was caused by the failure of the signal apparatus to work. He says he set the signals against the express.

Engineer Mansfield of the express says that the distance signal was clear but that he did not see the home signal, which was set against him until he was too close to stop.

Speaking of the accident Mansfield said that the first thing he knew of

LONG SENTENCE FOR WHITE SLAYER

The Convicted Man Arraigned by Judge

NEW YORK, July 25.—The limit of the law, in fine and imprisonment, was given in a "white slave" case in the court of general sessions yesterday by Judge Sullivan, who scored the prisoner before an approving crowd. Joseph, 35 years old and a bartender, pleaded guilty to a 33-year sentence. He was sentenced to a term of from 10 to 20 years in Sing Sing and a fine of $500, which, at the usual rate, means about 13 years.

Milton was convicted of selling into slavery 20-year-old Annie Lerner, an immigrant whom he found in an employment agency. The evidence against him was secured by Immigration Inspector Michael O'Brien, who is working up other cases.

MORTIMER SNOW

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Mortimer Snow & Co. in "A Bachelor's Dilemma" have won considerable applause throughout the week at the Merrimack Square theatre on a bill which has proven, by the capacity audiences which have greeted it every afternoon and evening, to be one of the most popular given at the theatre. The playlet which they present is a remarkably clever bit of dramatic construction, full of tense and unusual situations as well as bright lines and witty repartee which seldom fail to win a hearty laugh.

The other features on this week's bill, the "Mexican Hermit," an exceedingly clever magician with a quaint little accent and smiling face; Johnson & Wentworth, dainty dancers and singers; and Miss Alice Barker with her illustrated songs, have all proven to be remarkably popular with the enthusiastic audiences which have packed this popular theatre every day.

Today the new series of motion pictures, which will run the remainder of the week, will be put on and they should prove to be just as bright and interesting as those shown the first three days of this week.

LAKEVIEW DANCE HALL

John Y. Myers, the well known soloist at the Lakeview dance hall, conducted a novelty dancing party at the hall last evening, and there was a large attendance of dancers, who greatly enjoyed the evening's program. Just for that Mr. Myers will for the remainder of the week give a number of Harry Lauder's Scotch selections, in his own inimitable manner. Added to this feature there is still another, inasmuch as Z. I. Blissett, one of Lowell's best musicians, will give a number of piccolo solos and will also play in duets with Tom Pool, the latter on the drums and bells. Mr. Pool will play xylophone and bell solos and will also play with the other members of the orchestra for dancing. The orchestra which is recognized as one of the best in the vicinity will play, upon request, a number of Harry Lauder's famous numbers. The floor is great and all are assured of a delightful time at the hall, which is one of the best in New England.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

Only three more days remain to witness "The Hand of Man," played by Prince Ellwood and his company at Lakeview park this week. Mr. Ellwood's popularity grows with each performance and, judging from the applause, he and his company are making a decided hit with Lowellites. Besides the drama itself, there are three vaudeville acts given by Mr. Ellwood and two other members of his company. John Walsh, the fellow with the comedy face, certainly deserves the title. His equal would be hard to find. Also Eugene Shea, the man who makes the violin talk, does many clever tricks.

THEATRE VOYONS

Today's new program at the Theatre Voyons is a most pleasing one; its feature is "Rock of Ages," a Vitaphone dramatic subject telling a most touching story of a woman's trial and her sacrifice to her first love. Pathé's Weekly is a most interesting number and "The Little Artist of the Market" is a fine Edison drama. One of the musical features will be "My Dreamy Rose," sung by Miss Nora Dagget and the Voyons trio with special light and motion picture effects.

THE KASINO

Many of the old timers and hundreds of "young timers" enjoyed the program at The Kasino last night. The Kasino orchestra, under direction of James H. Buckley, gave a concert preceding dancing, and the program was made up entirely of the old time music. Of the same character was music for the dancing, and hundreds renewed their youth to the tuneful orchestral dances. Dancing sessions are held afternoon and evening at The Kasino, and Old Timers night comes every Wednesday.

COL. ROOSEVELT

TO ATTACK DEMOCRATIC AND REPUBLICAN ORGANIZATION

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 25.—Col. Roosevelt smiled today when he was told of the reports from Sea Girt that W. J. Bryan would follow his trail through the campaign. "Bryan?" he asked, "I don't see that there is anything for me to say at this time," he added.

Col. Roosevelt intends to attack the democratic and republican organizations with equal vigor as he has already done in the hope of placing his opponents on the defensive at the outset.

Col. Roosevelt was invited by the opinion given by Jacob A. Livingston, New York state election commissioner, to the effect that under the law no candidates for presidential electors could be named by petition in this state.

BOY WAS KILLED

MAN INJURED

Express Train Hit Baker Cart at Webster

WEBSTER, July 25.—August Lubbeck, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lubbeck of Poland street, was instantly killed, and Joseph Kosloski, a baker, was seriously injured yesterday forenoon when the New York express, due to leave Webster at 9:05, crashed into a baker cart in which they were riding at Chaserville crossing, a quarter of a mile south of Webster station.

The accident occurred at the foot of Hill street. The driver did not hear the train until it was close upon him. Kosloski was hurled 20 feet and fell unconscious in a ditch near the track, where he was found by a trainman. The boy was instantly killed. He was caught on the fender and dragged about 100 yards.

Engineer Starks was unable to see the wagon as it approached the crossing because of trees and shrubbery at this point.

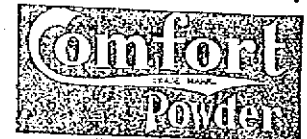

Kosloski was removed to the Worcester City hospital, where he is in a critical condition. The train was in charge of Engineer Edward Starks of Putnam, Conn.

Medical Examiner Johnson H. Woodward of Oxford view the body yesterday afternoon and pronounced death due to accident.

Besides his parents, the boy is survived by a sister and a brother.

Carnival Day

THE earliest mention of the Isthmus of Panama occurs in a letter which Columbus wrote to Ferdinand and Isabella while he was shipwrecked on the coast of Jamaica at the end of his fourth and last voyage to the West Indies. The records of the expedition which really discovered Panama are meagre but they show that the discoverers picked up the mainland of South America near Trinidad, and coasted westward past the Gulf of Darien and along the Isthmus as far as Nombre de Dios. They were under the leadership of Rodrigo de Bastides, and the expedition put out from Cadiz in October, 1500. Vasco Nunez de Balboa was among them. This was another attempt on the part of Columbus to find a shorter passage to the Orient, and it seems to have been his idea in coasting along the shores that he could find a water passageway that would lead to the far East. His dream or ambition was, of course, never realized, but after a lapse of more than four centuries American enterprise and capital are providing through artificial means the great canal or passage which the great discoverer thought existed naturally.

The natives were Indians somewhat of the same race and character as the aborigines of Mexico and the Southwestern part of the United States. In time this part of the Western Hemisphere was settled by Spaniards who in mixing with the native have founded the race which now inhabits Central America and the strip of land separating that country from South America. Balboa, who discovered the Pacific Ocean at Panama, was the first explorer to dispel the dream of Columbus and to teach European countries that the Orient was much farther to the westward and to reach it would require the traversing of an unknown sea for an unknown distance. His discovery of the Pacific Ocean was due to the suggestion of an Indian, and under the latter's guidance he crossed the Isthmus, following part of the way the path where the present canal is now located.

The first Spanish settlement on the Isthmus was at the beginning of the sixteenth century at a place called Santa Maria de la Antiquidad Darien. From this settlement many expeditions were made to discover the strait, which it was still believed existed connecting the two oceans through the continent, and this belief still prevailed even after Magellan had passed through the straits of Terra del Fuego. Under the command of the King of Spain the coast line was thoroughly explored and every river and inlet tried but without avail. These expeditions were not without value, for new territory was discovered and added to the Spanish crown. Until the strait should be found land communication was with great difficulty established between the two oceans. The roadway, which crossed the Chagres River at Las Cruces, was paved and about ten feet wide. A little later it was ascertained that small vessels could sail up the Chagres River as far as Cruces and the balance of the trip was made overland. Nombre de Dios was the Atlantic port for a time, but was eventually abandoned, and about the year 1709 Porto Bella was selected on account of its superior location and because it was supposed to be more healthful. This means of communication, though crude, slow and unhealthy, was of great value to the Spaniards who had discovered the vast treasures of Peru, which in time found their way into the Royal Treasury of Spain after a long and varied trip by ship to Panama, then pack mules across the Isthmus and then again by vessel to Spain.

Even in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries Panama assumed commercial importance and considerable trade not only with the surrounding countries but also with the old country was developed. The arrival of vessels from Europe brought merchants from Central and South America, and the fairs held at Porto Bella in these days have become historic. It is even recorded that some commerce was established with the mainland of Asia through Panama, a port of the beginning of what will happen when Uncle Sam throws open the Canal for traffic between Europe and the Orient. In the olden days the very mention of Panama suggested wealth and luxury, and the City of Panama was known as the "Gate of the Universe." It was the receiving point for the gold and silver from Darien and South America and the splendid pearls gathered on the Gulf Islands. During the seventeenth century it was considered one of the beautiful places of the world and contained more than twelve thousand buildings. There were palatial public buildings, gorgeous churches, a large depository for the King's treasure, eight monasteries and a magnificent hospital. The houses of the wealthy residents were built of stone or aromatic cedar, and were furnished in such elegance and comfort as could be obtained at that period. The Viceroy lived in splendor surrounded by the natives who were his slaves; money was plentiful, and life in old Panama was one of ease. There was no wall around the city—indeed, it seemed that none was needed. The enterprising buccaneer, however, learned of the wealth and prosperity of Panama and Henry Morgan, known as one of the boldest of this class, planned an expedition against the city. History tells us that this man was a native of Wales and the son of respectable parents. Early in life he took to sea and embarked for the Barbadoes. He soon joined the buccaneers and after a time saved enough money to join his comrades in equipping a ship of which he was chosen captain. He was a ruffian of the brutal type and without a spark of generosity in his nature. The wealth of Panama attracted him and he determined to capture the country. He assembled nine ships and nearly five hundred men of various nationalities

and captured Porto Bella after a fierce fight. The pirates then sacked the conquered town and retired to the sea. Just before leaving, Morgan sent a message to the Governor of Panama telling him that he, Morgan, would visit him at no distant date. Toward the close of the year 1670 Morgan again planned an expedition, this time against the City of Panama. His force consisted of thirty-seven vessels and about two thousand pirates of the worst type. There was a fierce fight filled with indescribable horrors, and six hundred Spaniards were killed within three hours, and the beautiful City of Panama put to the torch. A few people escaped with their treasures, but the sudden and tragic fall of the city had a depressing effect upon the Spaniards and they did not rebuild upon the same spot. Today the ruins are a jungle with the old tower of St. Augustin rising above the rank tropical vegetation. Panama the Beautiful was never revived as the present city is built on a site about five miles distant. The old adage of locking the stable after the horse has been stolen applies to the new city, for it is said that more than eleven million dollars were spent to protect the new city by huge walls of masonry. The trade and the glories of old Panama, however, never returned and the new city later became a part of Colombia and was ruled from Bogota. The Isthmus remained a part of Colombia until 1903, when it became the Independent Republic of Panama.

Panama City today still retains all the characteristics of the typical Spanish city except that it is well paved and sewerage—the result of the American Canal building. It has curious old Spanish balconies which project over the sidewalks. The houses are built of stone with few windows and these are heavily barred. Many of them are built about a courtyard known as a patio. Several beautiful plazas dot the city. These have bandstands in the centre, for music is a part of Spanish life and in this the Panamanian is no exception. The Independence Plaza is, perhaps, the prettiest of these

Political bitterness shows itself in a most unpleasant fashion in the social life of the Panamanians. Their chief amusements are cock fighting and church going—the former for the men and the latter for the women, and during fiestas the churches are packed to the doors with native women and only a sprinkling of men. The lottery flourishes and the drawings take place every Sunday nearby the home of the Bishop of Panama. The tickets are sold about the streets—frequently by women who importune the tourist on every corner.

The Indians who live in the interior are not unfriendly to the white man, but they have managed to keep their race absolutely pure, for it is their proud boast "that no San Blas woman has borne a half-breed, that no San Blas man has fathered a mongrel." It is said they number about twenty thousand and that they are well armed. They permit traders to land, but never allow them to remain on shore during the night. They guard their women to such an extent that a white man rarely sees one even at a distance, for as soon as a stranger appears in the village the women take to the jungles. The Cholo Indians have little sentiment on preserving their race and have intermarried with negroes, Spanish and Chinese.

The average Panamanian woman is not attractive. She is generally lazy and prefers to spend her time in a hammock or rocking chair. She wears loose wrappers during the day and takes life in an easy fashion. The better class send their daughters to Europe or the United States to be educated, but when they return to the Isthmus they soon go back to the old life of indolence. There is little social intercourse except at balls. The Spanish method of courting prevails for the girl rarely sees her lover alone until after he becomes her husband. The men spend their leisure hours at the cafes and clubs, and "calling" is a thing unknown, except when the women visit each other. Spanish customs are generally in vogue and these are anything but attractive to the American. Graft exists, and perhaps a hundred families reap the benefit. They are able to monopolize the sale of certain necessities by telling the natives that it is unpatriotic to deal with Americans.

THE ART and PLEASURE of SWIMMING

ALMOST every animal except man can manage to swim to some extent on finding itself in the water unexpectedly, and many creatures are most perfectly fitted by nature to swim with perfect ease and grace—the sealion for example.

Very few, if any, persons, however, on being accidentally plunged into the water find themselves able to swim or save themselves from drowning, even if they are not hampered by much clothing.

The art of swimming exercises almost every muscle of the body, is cleansing to its surface, and may be of use as well as pleasure in saving life. Of the thousands who annually visit our sea coast resorts during the hot summers, comparatively few can swim well, and of the gentler sex, very few can swim at all.

The ocean, with its rough breakers is not a very good place to begin one's first swimming lessons, but there are certain days when it is quite calm, however, and if no other opportunity offers, these times may be taken advantage of.

As the breast stroke is the foundation of the art, it is always best to beginners close together during the performance. This motion of the arms keeps the head and body well up in the water and propels one along at the same time.

The kick is the most important performance in swimming, as the legs are the great propellers and when correctly used send the body along at a good speed. A long-legged person can swim faster than one of shorter legs, provided the strength is equal.

The first position of the legs is shown in 1B—straight out behind with soles somewhat turned up. From this position the legs are bent and the knees drawn up as shown in Figure 2B. While drawing up the legs the knees are kept apart and heels almost touching—toes pointing outwards. At the beginning of the "drive" or kick, the feet are separated and legs shot out to their full extent, and as far apart as possible, as shown in Figure 3B. The next performance is to close the legs as vigorously as possible, finishing by having knees, ankles and great toes touch at the same moment. The feet are rapidly turned, from toes turned downward, to having them turned somewhat backward and completely meeting each other as the side of each foot touches. The secret of position, 3B), and after they are half way around, the legs are brought up into position for the drive.

Other swimming strokes can not so well be learned on land, so after the breast stroke is well understood, and both motions can be made in alternate order, it is not so difficult to get the other strokes in the water. For your first trial in water, select a quiet shelving beach where the water is up to your armpits when you have walked out about twenty yards from shore. (If you are of the gentler sex, a skirt will hamper your movements in the water about as much as if you strapped your legs together at the knees. It is not only useless, but dangerous, and no first-class woman swimmer ever wears one in the water.) Take a companion with you as you make your maiden effort in the water, and have him, or her, stand beside you as you start off. You must face the shore so you will come into more shallow water. Take a big breath,

Shut your mouth tightly, and make a plunge off your footing out flat into the water ahead of you. As you plunge shoot out the arms and swing them around as in the breast stroke, which you have been trying on land. As the arms are half way around draw up the legs and give the kick with as much exactness as possible. It won't matter if your mouth does get under a little—if it is shut as it should be. When you need to take a breath, let your feet drop toward the bottom and go back and try again. Your companion should follow you and assist when you are ready to quit trying for awhile. Keep up your courage, and this practice, and you will soon be swimming.

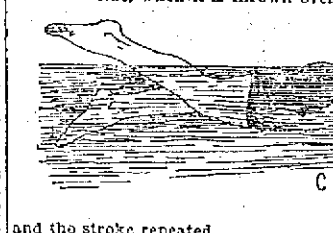

The correct position for floating is shown in Figure 1A. Have your assistant hold his hand at the middle of your back as you lay back in the water and throw your hands back over your head. Raising the head a little and striking backward with each hand, and making the breast kick, is all there is to swimming on the back, which is very easy—even if you can't see where you are going. Floating is very useful for resting and all should learn it. It is much easier in salt than in fresh water, the former being more buoyant.

After learning the breast stroke very well, others are readily added. One of the best strokes for long distances and great speed, is the English overhand stroke, also called the side stroke. This is very much faster than the breast stroke, and not so exhausting. Figure 5 shows this stroke in the water. The way to begin it is to stretch out the right arm (if you swim on the right side) while on the breast, and as you do this turn on the right side, and with palm turned downward, make a strong down-stroke as shown by the arrow in Figure 5. When this stroke is half finished, swing the left or upper arm out of water in a graceful curve, and dipping the hand into the water in a line ahead of the body, draw it with vigor in a downward stroke, taking it from the water as it nears the side, when it is thrown over and the stroke repeated. As the right arm is making its downward stroke, underneath the body, the legs are drawn up, with under knees pointing downward and upper ones in front. The legs are stretched out to their full extent apart, by the upper one coming forward and the under one stretching backward. In this position they are ready for the "scissors kick" which is made by bringing them together with as much power as possible. This is on the same principle as the breast kick but is made on the side. This side drive is made as the upper arm is pulled through the water. Then the under arm—called the sustainer—takes its turn, after the upper arm—called the propeller—has finished. The top of the foot, front of the leg and front of the thigh, strike against the water in the under leg movement in this stroke as it meets with the other one, and they both finish in a line with the body. The head rests in the water with face turned slightly upward. This stroke may be swum with both arms under water, but it is not quite as fast as where one is taken out. In former cases the upper arm pushes out directly from the shoulder

after the under one has about finished its work. The latest and fastest stroke is the "crawl," shown in Figure C. One arm at a time is brought out of water and thrown far ahead, when it is pulled downward toward the hip. The lower part of the legs are moved rapidly up and down a short distance as shown in drawing.

As the head is mostly under water in this stroke, one must inhale by the mouth as the face is turned upward when either arm is lifted out of water, and exhale under water. The stroke is quite tiring and not as practical for long distances as the side stroke or Trudgeon stroke, but it is good for short distance spurts in long swims. The only true way for the real swimmer to enter the water is to dive. To make the deep dive, lock the hands together by the thumbs, holding them flat with palms downward, and lean over, bending the head between the outstretched arms and give a jump off the pier or platform, throwing the feet up to get the body into an inclined position. As soon as the body is covered bend up the hands and head, and you will come to the surface immediately. Deep water diving is very easy, but the shallow dive into water less than eight feet is more difficult to do nicely, as the body goes in a more horizontal direction and is apt to strike on the stomach unless the performance is done properly.

An understanding of the currents of the ocean near shore will come in handy, so a profile drawing of the water, beach and sand bar, is given herewith. The bar is usually from 100 to 200 yards off from the shore, and this is where the ocean waves or "breakers" begin to mount up as they come against it. The great mass of water which comes over the bar must get back again somehow. To do this it must either go back over the bar or go around it—it does both. At certain places in these long sand bars, there are "washouts" through which the water rushes with such great force that no swimmer could possibly prevent being carried out to sea were he to get into one of them. Besides this danger there is the "undertow" to look out for at the seashore. This is always strongest where the waves are largest of course, as it represents the volume of water running back under the breaking waves. The undertow is shown by the darker lines in the profile diagram. It goes directly back toward the bar at first, then it runs either up or down the coast according to where the washout or outlet is. Some of it may go over the bar also. In diving too deeply near shore one is very apt to get into this undertow current, and be whirled toward the bottom, losing all control of himself for a spell—not a very agreeable experience.

To save life, or aid a drowning person, swim to the back of the person and place a hand at each armpit and swim backward. By this method you keep his head clear of the water, and he cannot grapple with you and both be drowned in consequence.

learn that first. When in water for real business one finds it very confusing trying to make the suggested movements and keeping comfortably afloat at the same time, so it is wise to practice these movements on land before trying them in the water. We will start with the arm motions first. Figure 3B gives the first position. With palms flat and facing forward, both arms are shot out to full extent in front, from under the chin to position shown in 1B. Now bend the outside edges of the hands up a trifle and swing both arms around in a semi-circle, in a line with the body, and as they near right angles to the body, begin to bend elbows, and drawing hands close to the body get them into the former position under the chin again, from where they started. This is the whole operation for the hands and should be done with ease and grace, keeping

THE BOSTON STRIKE

As we stated at the beginning of the strike on the Elevated road in Boston, the company had no right whatever to discriminate against any of its employees because of belonging or not belonging to any union. General Bancroft made the boast that he would spend a million dollars rather than recognize the union. In all probability he has already spent more than a million dollars and from the present outlook he will be obliged to spend considerably more and he will have to recognize the union at the same time. He will also have to change his tactics in regard to the men he employs to take the place of the strikers. It is apparent that many of those working on the cars are men of little or no experience, dishonest to the company, insolent and abusive to the passengers. As a result of their inexperience many accidents have occurred causing serious injury to passengers and pedestrians.

The investigation made by the state board of arbitration brings out a number of facts that must undoubtedly turn public sentiment against the management of the elevated road. Gov. Foss scores the company and its methods and he very logically points out that if his demand for a public service commission had become law, the state would now have a public body invested with authority to deal with matters of this kind and to protect the public against the arbitrary action of any public service corporation.

We cannot see how the company can hold out much longer against public sentiment and the protests and criticism of the governor and other high officials. The situation justifies the governor's demand for a public service corporation with powers sufficient to arbitrate such strikes or to take such action in regard to industrial disputes as may prevent strikes that would inflict serious loss or inconvenience upon the public.

EQUAL JUSTICE FOR ALL

District Attorney Pelletier of Suffolk county comes out strongly against the alleged severity of the lower courts in dealing with cases arising from the carmen's strike. He denounces as outrageous the sentences imposed in such cases and states that he will stand between the people and such unwarranted sentences as three and six months for calling "scab" and one, two and three years for a simple assault. It is doubtless true that the lower courts in the presence of an apparent local tendency to lawlessness, may have overstepped the bounds of justice in an effort to make an example of the offenders brought before them. In the higher courts, where the atmosphere of local influences is lost, the offenses charged will be considered regardless of the exciting situations with which they were associated locally. Mr. Pelletier is right in his criticism, for although at times the local courts have to impose extreme penalties as a deterrent against crime, yet the fact remains that an offense committed during a strike is not any worse from a legal standpoint than a similar offense committed when there is no strike. These offenses in the high court will be dissociated from the influences that caused the lower courts to exercise severity. Mr. Pelletier's stand will meet general approval as in the interest of equal justice for all.

TO AMEND THE ANTI-TRUST LAW

In the recommendations of the so-called Stanley steel committee for amendments to the Sherman anti-trust law some very radical changes are suggested. One of the most important of these is, that the prosecutions would not be confined to the government alone, but instituted by individuals who might find themselves handicapped in business by the operation of a monopoly in restraint of trade. Moreover the burden of proof in regard to the charge of restraint of trade shall be shifted to the shoulders of the defendant corporation. Furthermore, the definition of the various forms of restraint will remove the uncertainty which so many business men have suffered from since the United States supreme court read into the act the word "unreasonable restraint of trade." In the past nothing but an expensive government suit could demonstrate the standing of a corporation having any of the earmarks of a trust. If the government saw fit to prosecute, the trust was brought under the operation of the act and the worst penalty was formal dissolution, usually carried out on paper without seriously affecting the operation of the trust even when resolved to its component parts. There is room for radical improvement in the act, and while the recommendations of the Stanley committee are not likely to become law, they are in the right direction and may result in some satisfactory amendments later on.

MERRIMACK WATERWAY BOARD

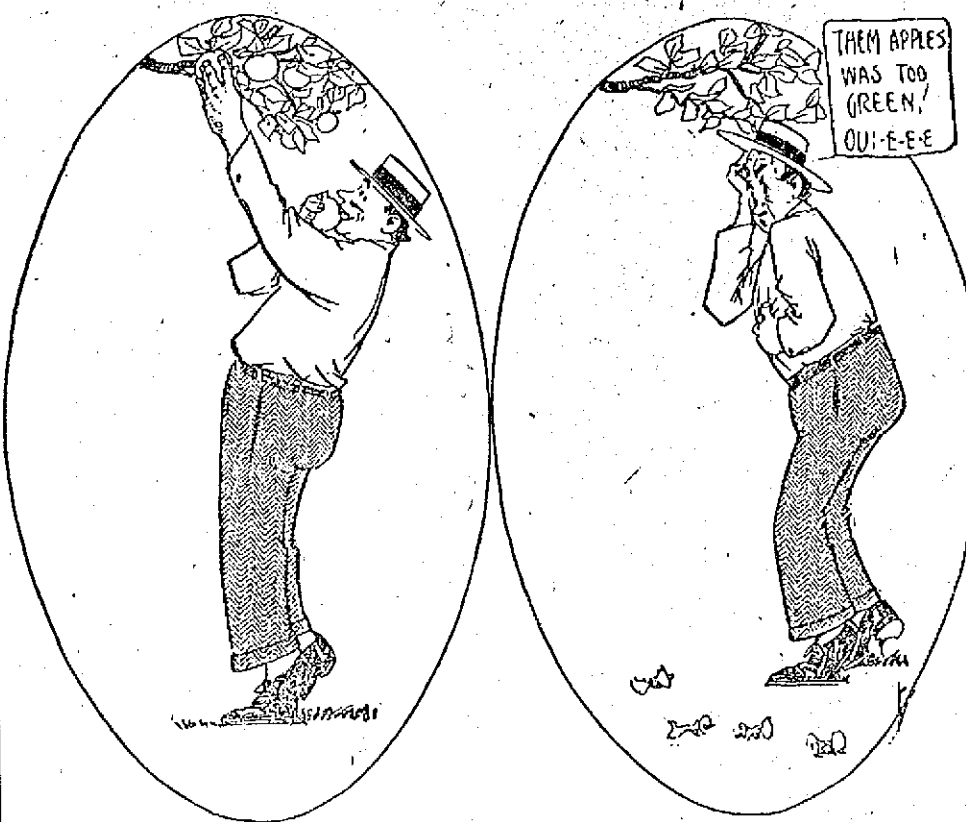

It is not likely that Governor Foss would appoint Congressman Ames to the important position of chairman of the Merrimack River Waterways board without consulting him. It has been charged in the past that the big mill corporations are not in favor of the proposition to make the Merrimack navigable and of course Mr. Ames may be regarded as closely identified with those interests. He is moreover a petitioner for the right to build a new railroad from Lowell to Boston, and whether this project would interfere with his usefulness as chairman of the waterways board is not certain. If Mr. Ames should go into the matter of making the river navigable with earnestness and a determination to make the most of the proposition, there is no doubt that he could accomplish great results. He is familiar with the action of congress in regard to such problems and he could push the movement for a federal appropriation which is absolutely essential to the success of the undertaking. What is wanted first is a definite plan to be gradually developed and worked out.

The Bull-Moose convention to meet in Chicago next month will not represent anything but Roosevelt. The delegates are self-appointed and the nominee is chosen in advance. It may as well be called a convention of one.

The I. W. W. has declared off the strike at New Bedford. The I. W. W. is not in a position to settle the strike as its influence in New Bedford is not a dominating factor in the situation.

It is about time the state highway commission should get its forces to work on the down river boulevard. That road should be completed before September 1st. There is no longer any excuse for delay.

The Boston Herald has discovered that there is another side to the Lorimer case. Well, what of it? The people got more than they relished on one side.

LIFE'S DISAPPOINTMENTS

SEEN AND HEARD

In Georgia they tell of a prisoner who had been convicted a dozen times of stealing, who, when placed at the bar for his latest offense, displayed a singular curiosity.

"Your honor," said he, "I should like to have my case postponed for a week, my lawyer is sick."

"But," said the magistrate, "you were caught with your hands in this gentleman's pocket. What can your counsel say in your defense?"

"Exactly so, your honor; that is what I am curious to know."

THE TRIP TO CALIFORNIA UNDER SPECIAL CARE

"You feel like sorting out and trying together the memories of this trip and keeping them separate from all other trips." A woman recently said this after a pleasant experience on a Burlington Route "Through Tourist Car Excursion party to California. She traveled alone, but met many agreeable people on the car, which was in charge of a special conductor. This good natured official was a well-informed, courteous man who went all the way through with the party, looking after everyone's comfort and attending to all the little details of the trip. Thus a woman or child in one of these parties can travel with perfect safety and freedom from care. If you would like to know more about the Burlington's comfortable and inexpensive personally conducted excursions, please write me a postal and I'll send you maps, booklets, pictures, etc., by return mail. Nova Scotia town. During the long winter evenings your Bill used to lie out in front of the big open fireplace and just about the time he had got warm and comfortable and a trifle drowsy, Norwood senior would make up his mind the fire was getting low and send the son out into the snow to bring in a baglog from the wood pile.

Eventually these nocturnal pilgrimages got on young Bill's nerves, and one night, when his father sent him out after the baglog, the son continued on past the woodpile and across country to the nearest seaport, where he shipped on a whaler.

Nine years later Bill came back. It was a bitter winter night and the snow was falling. Bill sneaked up to the window and looked into the old-sitting room.

"The fire was burning in the old fireplace and Bill's father and mother were seated in front of it. He noticed that the fire was a trifle low. So he went to the woodpile, selected a big baglog, carried it into the house and stood for a moment by the fire with the log on his shoulder.

"Father," said Bill, "I've brought in that baglog you sent me after."

"The old man never bugged an inch.

Instead he spat into the fire and returned testily:

"Set it on the fire. You've been a long while getting it!"

What constitutes recreation depends

of course, on the point of view of the one who is recreating. This anecdote

shows what one small citizen thought

enjoyable.

A boy in a certain state school for dependent children wrote his father thus: "Dear papa. We children are having a good time here now. Mr. Sager broke his leg and can't work. We went on a picnic and it rained and we all got wet. Many children here are sick with mumps. Mr. Higgins fell off the wagon and broke his rib, but he can work a little. The man that is digging the deep well whipped us boys with a buggy whip because we threw sand in his machine, and made black and blue marks on us. Ernest cut his finger badly. We are all very happy."

Just as you have decided to follow

the Japanese regime and drink several

gallons of water a day for your health,

along comes some great authority who

warns you against such things. Dr.

Fabre, a famous French doctor, now

says that the people who go practically

without drink and trust to getting their

liquids as they are contained in the

moisture in the regular food are the healthiest.

No water-writes are known to the profession by the name of "algidipnetes," and they are usually fine physical specimens. Still another compromise school of dietitians argue that the natural thirst is the best guide for a person and that you should drink when you feel like it, but not force yourself.

When "doctors disagree," what is the poor victim to do?

THE MILLER OF THE DEE

There dwelt a miller, hale and bold,

Who wrought and sang from morn till

night.

No mark more bright than he;

And this the burden of his song

Forever used to be:

"I envy no one—no, not I—

And no one envies me!"

Thou'rt wrong, my friend," said old

King Hal.

"As wrong as wrong can be:

For could my heart be light as thine

I'd gladly change with thee.

And tell me now what makes thee sing

With voice so loud and free.

While I am sad, though I'm the King,

Beside the river Dee.

The miller smiled and doffed his cap:

"I earn my bread, quoth he,

"I love my wife, I love my friend,

I love my children three.

I owe no one I cannot pay,

I thank the river Dee.

Thy turns the mill that grinds the corn.

To feed my babes and me.

"Good friend," said Hal, and sighed

the while.

"Farewell and happy be:

But say no more, if thou'lt be true,

Thy love my wife I love my friend,

Thy miller cap is worth my crown.

Thy mill my kingdom's fee!"

Such men as thou are England's boast.

O miller of the Dee!"

—Charles Mackay.

There are many sad occasions when

grief will have its way.

There are moments when the sun

is hidden from the day;

But in face of tears, in spite of cares,

there's a room here all the while

For the one who has the courage and

the willingness to smile.

A smile is like a little stone that's

dropped into a lake.

That ripples start, and happier and

wider circles make.

And its influence is best marked when

it's found after a while.

That's the smile of one who has hearted the happy way to smile.

It's so easy to be spiteful, it's so simple to be blind,

But you'll find it just as easy and as simple to be kind.

An unkind word will take effect, and

last for quite a while.

But it can't compare to the effect resulting from a smile.

The little look of sympathy, the little

word of cheer.

Are precious gifts that we can never

have too much of here.

So hide away your little cares and

troubles for awhile.

And brighten this old world of ours

by showing it a smile.

Health and Beauty Helps

BY MRS. MAE MARTIN

C. L.: The hot sun and wind will not injure your skin, even though it is delicate. If you apply a spumax lotion each day. This lotion is made by adding 2 teaspoonfuls of glycerine to 30 pint witch hazel (or hot water), then 1 ounce spumax. Powder and rouge are unnecessary when the spumax lotion is used, and if you apply the lotion every day you will find that it banishes tan and freckles and dispels the oily, shiny, blotchy condition. The spumax lotion is invisible when on and is not affected by wind or perspiration.

Myra: Each night apply pyroxin to lash roots with thumb and forefinger and they will come in long and silky. Your eyebrows will grow thick and heavy by rubbing on pyroxin with finger tips. Be careful and don't get any where hair is not wanted.

Dorothy D.: No harm results when delatone is used to banish hairy growths. Just make a paste with some delatone and water, spread over hairs and in 2 or 3 minutes remove, wash the skin, and every trace of hair or fuzz has vanished. The color is necessary to use more than one application of delatone.

B. A.: Of course you cannot make your hair look bright and pretty, because soap was never intended for shampooing, as it causes the hair to grow greasy and brittle. Dissolve a teaspoonful cantrox in a cup hot water and you will have enough mixture for a delightful soothing and invigorating shampoo. The latter created by cantrox always scalp irritation and dissolves dandruff and excess oil, and after rinsing well, the hair and scalp are clean and sweet, while the hair dries quickly with an even rich color and beautiful gloss. Nothing compares with cantrox for keeping the hair silky, brilliant and fluffy in hot
